California Votes Yes

Edison Losing Strength

General Butler Retires

—By Arthur Brisbane—

NO DEPRESSION can destroy the courage of Southern California, where Los Angeles and 12 surrounding cities have voted by an overwhelming majority to spend $220,000,000 on an aqueduct 275 miles long to bring water from the Colorado river.

The flood waters of the Colorado, impounded behind the dam, will first generate a million electric horsepower, then supply water for irrigation and other uses in Southern California.

The vote for a $220,000,000 bond issue proves the confidence of Californians in their future and the early arrival of the seven million population, for which the new aqueduct will have sufficient water capacity.

California's vote will give employment to 10,000 men for six years.

The five billion dollar bond issue, advocated by W. R. Hearst, for permanent national development and immediate employment, if put to a national vote, would be carried as enthusiastically as Southern California has carried the proposition to spend two hundred and twenty millions on a water supply.

Sad news comes of Thomas A. Edison, losing strength slowly, almost hopelessly. He has been compelled to abandon his daily automobile ride, and, according to his doctor, "seems to have lost interest in life, with failing strength."

The thoughts of this nation are with the noble old man whose entire life has been devoted to public service, to work that confers glory upon his country, and blessings upon the world. He is the greatest American since Lincoln, as Lincoln was the greatest since Washington.

Washington gave us freedom. Lincoln preserved the Union. Edison gave light to his own country and to the world, with employment, prosperity and wealth beyond computation.

The electric industry, based on his discovery, employs in the United States now 800,000 human beings, with a payroll exceeding one thousand million dollars a year.

And Edison, noble genius, with the world's interests fading from his mind and heart, his spirit turned toward a world of light unending, has added to his worldly possessions little, except a name that will live for thousands of years.

A recent amendment to the army appropriations act compels the army to purchase "only articles of the growth, production or manufacture of the United States." Hereafter matches made in Russia will not be bought for American soldiers, although American made matches may cost more.

With all friendliness for foreign countries, it is plain that Uncle Sam should spend his money in his own family.

"You may haul down my flag, sir," said Gen. Smedley B. Butler to Lieut. Whitaker, his aide. And that ended Gen. Butler's active connection with the United States Marine corps.

On the retired list, he can now use in accordance with his best judgment powers of expression that are unusual.

He retires with a salute of 13 guns, and with public thanks and admiration.

A man is entitled to them when he has proved himself, in numerous ways, one of the best fighters for his country that this nation has produced.

German territory along the Rhine called the Palatinate, reaching from Frankfurt to the French Alsatian border, is proud that President Hoover is included among 5,000,000 descendants of men and women that came to America from that little stretch of river front. Given opportunity, the human race multiplies rapidly.

The five million descendants of men from the Palatinate are five times as numerous as all the inhabitants of that country.

Americans discussing prohibition will be interested to learn that the "Hubers," spelled "Hoover" in America, still live, as President Hoover's ancestors did, on the sale of wine from their vineyards, on hills above the Rhine.

Many Americans think that wine, with light beer added, would hurt the United States less than our present brands of bootleg whiskey, "bathtub" gin and moonshine.

Pity the farmer with potatoes 20 cents a barrel and many other troubles. Especially pity farmer William Schroeder.

SEVENTH INNING

Athletics—Haas bolted to Frisch. Cochrane singled into right field. Simmons drove a long drive into the left field bleachers for a home run, scoring Cochrane ahead of him. Foxx drove a sharp single to centre. Miller forced Foxx at second, Gelbert to Frisch. Frisch was spilled by the runner and was unable to make a play at first. Dykes out to Martin. TWO RUNS, THREE HITS, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

Cardinals—Flowers batted for Derringer. Dykes made a leaping stop of Flowers' bounder and threw out the runner on a fine play. High fouled out to Dykes. Roettger singled. Frisch singled. Bottomley grounded out, Bishop to Foxx. NO RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS, TWO LEFT.

EIGHTH INNING

Athletics—Sylvester Johnson went to the box for Cardinals. Williams up and struck out. Grove up and flied out to Roettger. Bishop up and popped to Frisch. NO RUNS, NO HITS NO ERRORS, NONE LEFT.

Neither team scored in the ninth inning.

Longshoremen Agree to Accept an Overtime Pay Cut Pending New Parley

Action today by Gov. Ely and Mayor Curley effected a truce between longshoremen and steamship operators and prevented, at least temporarily, the threatened general strike which would tie up all Eastern shipping.

Meanwhile, wire transmitted pending negotiations to which Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Union, will participate.

The general strike, scheduled for 5 o'clock this afternoon unless demands of the workmen were met by the steamship companies, was called off.

The truce was effected shortly after a clash of police and strikers at Commonwealth pier, caused by the felling of a strike-breaker by an iron bolt hurled by a striker. Police cleared the pier of strikers.

Both sides agreed to the temporary compromise at a meeting in the executive council chamber at the State House, with Gov. Ely presiding informally and Mayor Curley present.

40,000 See the Cards and A's Battle in Opening Game of the Series

(Additional details and runs on Page 26)

Sports Park, St. Louis, Oct. 1—The Philadelphia Athletics won the first game of the world series from the St. Louis Cardinals here today before a crowd of 40,000 fans.

The Cards got off to a flying start in the first frame and scored two runs off the mighty portsider, Lefty Grove. The lead was short-lived, however, as the Athletics' "murderers' row" got busy on Derringer in the third inning, and scored four runs to go two up on the Cards.

It looked as if the A's would add a few more in the sixth, but with Dykes and Williams on base, with only Grove out, Bishop lined to Bottomley, who stepped on first for an unassisted double play.

Al Simmons figured a two-run lead wasn't very safe, so, in the seventh, with Mickey Cochrane on first, Al belted the ball into the left field bleachers for a home run. Twenty thousand St. Louis fans fainted. The A's didn't score any more runs in this inning because half the crowd were blinded with tears.

Simmons' homer in the seventh was the blow that finished the giant rookie Derringer, and dashed his hopes for baseball glory. When the Cards came to bat in the seventh, Derringer was sent to the showers, and Flowers, a pinch-hitter, took his place at bat. But Flowers was thrown out, and the Cards scored no runs.

The Cards jumped into a two-run lead in the first inning of the opening game when successive singles off Lefty Grove, by Roettger, Frisch and Bottomley, followed by a double by Martin, sent two runs across the plate.

THOMAS LIPTON IS 'VERY ILL'

London, Oct. 1 (AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton, British sportsman, was reported today to be suffering from the effects of a severe chill.

His condition was causing grave anxiety.

He caught cold about 10 days ago while motoring and has been unable to throw it off. At present, his secretary said, the 80-year-old yachtsman is "very ill."

"He will be in no condition to sail for New York on Saturday as he intended," said the secretary. "As a matter of fact, the passage has been cancelled."

Late this afternoon it was said that the patient was just holding his own. Four doctors are attending him.

CURTIS-SANGER SUSPENDED

The firm of Curtis & Sanger, brokers, with three offices in Boston and one in Red Bank, N. J., was suspended today by the New York Stock Exchange. The action, which was entirely unexpected, caused surprise in financial circles.

There had been no intimation that the firm, which has been a member of the Boston Stock Exchange since 1868, was in any way involved.

Announcement of the suspension was made at noon at the New York Stock Exchange. Boston representatives declined to make any statement. The firm's Boston offices are at 33 Congress st., 645 Beacon st. and 709 Boylston st.

The New York office is at 49 Wall st., and there are branch offices in Providence and Red Bank, N. J.

Harvard to Play Cadets at Point

President A. Lawrence Lowell's expressed fear of commercializing college athletics led him today to reject a suggestion that the Harvard-West Point football game be played in Boston or New York for the benefit of the unemployed.

The educator's attitude was revealed by Mayor Curley, who had visited him in the hope of having the football classic transferred from West Point to either the Harvard or Yankee stadiums.

OPPOSES TRANSFER

The mayor said he had informed President Lowell that Harvard and West Point would have been given the equivalent of the sums they would have received if the game was played at the military academy, and the remainder would have been divided between Boston and New York welfare departments.

In a telegram to Mayor Walker of New York, setting forth the results of his visit to Cambridge, the mayor said:

"I conferred today with President Lowell of Harvard University relative to his approval of a transfer from West Point to the Yankee Stadium or the Harvard Stadium, of the game between West Point and Harvard. President Lowell is opposed to any change in the college schedule since in his opinion such change would be regarded as commercializing college athletics.

JUST MAKE ENOUGH

"President Lowell further stated that the revenue from college athletics was about sufficient at the present time to care for the cost of college athletic activities."

The proposal to shift the scene of the football game was Mayor Curley's

Daytona Beach, Fla., Oct. 1.—Questioned at length for hours in police headquarters here, Dr. Leslie D'Meyers Ritchie, 51, a veterinarian from Westport, Ct., stoutly maintained that he knew nothing whatever about the murder of Benjamin P. Collings aboard his yacht Penguin in Long Island Sound on the night of Sept. 9.

Both men, arrested late yesterday by Chief of Police C. J. Luke, were being held today for word from Connecticut and New York authorities.

Both Ritchie and his son admitted knowing William Smith, a garage worker, of South Norwalk, whose body was washed up on the beach last Tuesday. Both denied, however, any knowledge of how he had me this death.

The elder Ritchie declared they had arrived here last Sunday afternoon. He left South Norwalk about 10:30 last Wednesday morning, he said, arriving in Daytona Beach about 6 o'clock Sunday night.

He exhibited a doctor's prescription blank on which it was stated that he received morphine.

SECOND MURDER TANGLES COLLINGS CASE PROBE

MAN FOUND IN SOUND BEATEN TO DEATH

Connecticut Doctor and Son Held at Daytona, Fla., for Grilling

By Boston Evening American Special Correspondent

New York, Oct. 1—Dr. Leslie Ritchie, 51, former Vermont veterinarian, and his son, William, 25, have been taken into custody by Chief of Police Charles J. Luke, at Daytona Beach, Fla., and are being held there "for investigation," in connection with the Collings murder mystery today.

At the same time, Suffolk County authorities here were dismayed to learn that, in the Collings case, they now have not one murder to solve, but two.

When shown photos of the Ritchies, Mrs. Collings, widow of the slain pirate victim, was unable to identify either of them as the killers she saw aboard her husband's boat on the murder night.

BEATEN TO DEATH

It definitely was established that the man whose body was washed up on the shore of Long Island Sound on Tuesday was murdered —struck on the head with a club, or, perhaps, as was Collings, with a milk bottle, before his body was thrown into the water.

The man has been identified as William Smith, 25, of South Norwalk, Ct., a former friend of the Ritchies.

Today Assistant Dist. Atty. Freed Munder, in Huntington, applied to County Judge George Furman for permission to exhume the body at once, in order to make identification positive.

The body was interred, after an autopsy on Tuesday, in the rural cemetery at Northport. Although admittedly without clues in the Collings case, and although looking for the "wounded man," mention of whom occupies an important place in Mrs. Collings' story of the murder of her husband, the Suffolk County authorities rushed the body off for burial, with almost indecent tentative.

Fortunately, however, the vital organ and a blood tumor, this last from the victim's head, were preserved.

CAUSED BY BLOW

Examination of the tumor disclosed that it was caused by a blow on the head before death occurred, and this, coupled with the discovery of the connection between Smith and the Ritchies, did at last, Munder says, the district-attorney's office into action.

Although, perhaps, able to rectify their error in this connection, Suffolk County authorities found themselves in an embarrassing position in connection with the Collings murder. Dr. Otto H. Schultze, who performed the autopsy upon Collings' body, was taken to a sanitarium, suffering from what was said to be a complete nervous collapse.

COLLINGS CREMATED

There is some question now as to whether the examination of Collings' body might not likewise have been too hurried.

Dist.-Atty. Alexander Blue, in charge of the case, said the Ritchies would be questioned in Florida. The wives of both Ritchies are with them in the South.

On the other hand, Irene Castle is sound in her statement that pigs prefer cleanliness, thrive and avoid hog cholera and other disastrous epidemics when they are kept really clean and fed on grain, alfalfa and other clean material instead of swill.

A Stock Exchange seat sold yesterday for $158,000, a drop of nearly half a million from the highest price. He who sold it will regret it, though prices may go lower, for a ban on short selling is coming, and probably Federal action that will make the ban real.

That would discourage brokers unable to realize that honest buying is better than dishonest short selling, with the broker lending his customer's stock to gamblers on the short side, and directly injuring his customer's interest.

of September 9?" the night of the Collings' murder.

This question seemed to take the prisoner completely off his guard, and his eyelids fluttered in a nervous manner. His confusion was evident to myself and Chief Luke, who was the only other person in the room.

"Where was I? Why, at home, I guess; I really don't remember, if you want me to tell you the truth about it; if you don't, why then—"

He left the sentence unfinished, ending up on a challenging note, as though he realized he was rambling.

"Was your wife there?"

"Yes, I guess so, I suppose she was."

"Was your son William there?"

"No, he was living with my sister in South Norwalk."

"Do you know William Smith?" he was asked.

"Yes, I know him. He drove down to Daytona with me last February."

"Where did you meet Smith?"

"I met him in a rooming house in South Norwalk."

Ritchie said Smith, whom he described as an automobile mechanic, lived with him, Ritchie, for two or three days after their return to Westport, Ct.

"When is the last time you saw him?"

"I haven't seen him since he left my house last April."

"Why did he leave your house?"

"Well, my wife asked him to leave on account of there not being enough room.

"Have you ever worn sneakers?" Ritchie was asked.

"Yes, once. I bought a pair yesterday."

"Did you ever have a pair before that."

"No."

"Did you ever hear of a yacht called the Penguin?"

"Yes, I read about it in the paper."

"Did you ever see the yacht?"

"No, I never did."

"Do you know what happened on the Penguin on the night of Sept. 9?"

Here the veterinarian's face began to take on a wrathful expression, and he sputtered.

"So that's what I'm thrown in jail for. You think I'm a murderer."

"You deny that you know anything about the murder of Collings?"

"Yes," he said in a loud and belligerent voice. "Of course I deny it."

Saving Cash We Haven't Got

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Administration is saving a lot of money we haven't got.

Economy at this stage is like changing the license plates on a stolen car.

If Mr. Hoover stops the raids on the Treasury a lot of Senators will have to learn a new trade.

Reduction in armament is all right. The little school children are tired anyway of singing about the army and the navy forever.

The new style in budgets will eliminate the athletic shoulders. The navy will lose seven destroyers but the power of balance will be maintained by 50 more swivel chairs.

Looks like the American Legion is right about beer. It won't change things any but it will help you to forget.

It looks like naval economy will be popular in all branches of the government. We will keep the old boats and the older barnacles.

WARNING FAILS IN MILL WAR

Lawrence, Oct. 1—Mill workers here today refused to abandon their fight against a proposed 10 per cent wage reduction at the threat the Pacific Mills would be moved from the city unless the cut was accepted.

"Let them move," was the reaction of the mill workers when the statement of Alfred E. Colby, treasurer of the Pacific Mills Print Works, largest in the city, was read at a textile union mass meeting here last night.

Colby's statement that the mill could not continue to operate here unless the cut was accepted followed the refusal of other mill officials to confer with workers on the proposed cut, which is scheduled to become effective, Oct. 15.

The situation is in a dead lock, and leading citizens are striving desperately to avert a strike.

After stormy sessions of both textile unions here last night, it was determined to adopt the suggestion of American Federation of Labor officials that the question of a wage reduction be put to a vote of the workers.

RIVALS BUILD, U. S. DESTROYS, SAYS HALE

Maine Senator Raps Hoover's Cut of Destroyer Quota

"While Great Britain and Japan build, we destroy," Senator Frederick Hale, of Maine, chairman of the Senate naval affairs committee, declared last night in criticizing President Hoover's slicing of the destroyer quota.

"Under the terms of the London treaty, which expires in 1936, we are allowed 150,000 tonnage as a total for this type of naval armament, but now the President has cut that down to 7500 tons," said Senator Hale while riding crosstown to catch the Federal express for Washington.

Senator Hale

In the capital he will consult naval authorities, he said, and leave a statement in full on the action of President Hoover in reducing from 11 to five the number of destroyers to be built.

"The tonnage allowed us under the treaty," Senator Hale declared, "approximates 100 destroyers, 11 of which have been already authorized and appropriated for.

"The President's action in ignoring and disregarding the mandate of Congress is decidedly disappointing and hardly understandable. It is a blow not only to such expected relief in the unemployment situation as would be afforded by the building program, but to the National defense as a whole.

"Naturally we could not be expected to build 100 destroyers in 1936 but at least we should get a start on them. By the time the London Treaty expires in 1936 every destroyer in the United States Navy will have become obsolete and we will have none to replace them."

Cotton Pool to End Farmers' Suspense

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 1 (AP)—Formation of a "suspense pool" to take care of cotton of farmers who do not know "which way to turn," was announced today by the Mid-West Cotton Growers' Association.

Under the plan, farmers may draw an advance of three cents a pound on cotton and ship it to the association to be held until December 1. By that time the farmer must decide whether he wants his cotton sold or placed in the seasonal pool.

"Ironsides" Attracts 154,000 Visitors

Philadelphia, Oct. 1 (AP)—"Old Ironsides," once the pride of the American Navy and now on a patriotic cruise, today headed down the Delaware river for Norfolk, Va., in tow of a mine sweeper.

During her 12-day stay here 154,803 visitors inspected the frigate.

GUILTY DRIVERS SHOULD PAY, SAYS LAWYER

Cambridge Attorney Says That Hitting Pocketbook Would Make Them Careful

A five per cent charge against the personal funds of the automobile driver who causes an accident was proposed today to the joint legislative committee on judiciary and insurance as a means of stabilizing the muddle of compulsory automobile insurance.

James T. Pugh, Cambridge attorney, made the proposal soon after the second day opened for public hearings in Gardner Auditorium at the State House.

Pugh added that he would prohibit any other insurance that would provide for payment of the 5 per cent charge.

WHERE IT HURTS MOST

"If the guilty driver were to pay part of the award from his own pocket, we would see a great reduction in accidents and, consequently, a great reduction in the experience figures that govern the rates," Pugh said.

"Every driver would take a direct personal interest against accident if he were required to pay at least 5 per cent of the award.

"The system would eliminate the so-called 'profitable accidents' that are charged today and more care would be shown."

Pugh added that the law should provide suspension of the driver's license until such part of the award is paid.

LAWYERS CAN FIX IT

On the elimination of guest rider claims, proposed Monday by Gov. Ely in his special message to the Legislature, Pugh said he was not wholly in accord with the Governor's proposal, because "smart lawyers would find a way out."

"The law could be made stringent, it's true, but smart lawyers will simply make business riders out of guest riders and the claim will be allowed," he said.

In the Legislature, Rep. Connolly prepared an order to require the summoning of books and papers of insurance companies, insurance officials and any other witnesses the solons might require, to further consider legislation at the special session.

Professor Praises Newspaper English

Newark, N. J., Oct. 1 (AP)—A college professor had some good words to say today about the "all but impeccable English being written nowadays by American newspapermen.

"The English used at the present time in the best newspapers," said Dr. Allen Sinclair Will, head of the department of journalism at Rutgers University, "is not inferior to that which may be seen in current literature finding acceptance from a large body of readers. The English is all but impeccable according to current standards."

Wants Chancellor Who Prefers Beer

London, Oct. 1—Sir William Wayland, Conservative, wants a chancellor of the exchequer who drinks beer.

All the chancellors since 1918, he says, have been whiskey drinkers or wine sippers. As a result, he says, beer has had to bear a heavy tax burden.

Lady Moutbatten Forced by Taxes to Sell Home

London, Oct. 1 (INS)—Britain's heavy tax burdens struck another personage high in British society today. Lady Louise Montbatten, the former Princess of Hattenberg, cousin by marriage of King George, today instructed real estate agents to sell her London home because of the tremendous taxes its upkeep entailed.

The Mountbatten's London home "Brook House" is one of the show-places of the west end.

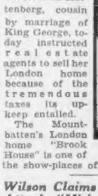
Wilson Claims Legion Attack "Misinterpreted"

Alton, Ill., Oct. 1—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition, and Public Morals, said last night his recent statement regarding the American Legion National Convention and its vote for a nation-wide referendum on prohibition had been "misinterpreted". He said some of the war veterans adopted French customs and come back to import them into the United States.



Dr. Wilson

Lady Astor Out Against Private Sale of Beer

London, Oct. 1—Lady Astor, American-born member of Parliament, has declared herself in favor of removing the ban of secrecy from the hands of private sellers and making it a national question.

Lady Astor

Lady Astor made plain her stand on the beer issue yesterday when addressed by Lieut.-Commander J. M. Kenworthy of "pure hypocrisy."

Kenworthy said she had previously made it plain she did not favor prohibition but was prepared to support unmitigated prohibition of the workman's drink in the shape of a tremendous tax.

Vatican Agrees to Retire Cardinal From Spain

Madrid, Oct. 1—The Vatican has agreed to retire Cardinal Pedro Segura Y Saenz from the Spanish primacy, Miguel Maura, minister of government, has announced.

The removal of the Cardinal Primate, who has been accused of political activities, was called a victory for the Republican government in a joint statement issued by President Alcala Zamora and Fernando de Los Rios, minister of justice.

Concert Pianist Ends Life With Razor in Back Bay

MYSTERY VEILS REASON FOR HIS SUICIDE

Leon Vantanian Found in His Suite With Throat and Wrists Slashed

Leon Vartanian, young Russian pianist, committed suicide by slashing his throat and wrists with a razor blade today.

His uncled body was found in a pool of blood in his richly furnished apartment at 46 Westland ave., Back Bay. He died at City Hospital a few minutes later.

NO MOTIVE KNOWN.

Medical Examiner Timothy Leary, who recorded the death as suicidal after police had investigated several suspicious circumstances indicating an attack, said no motive was apparent.

The victi mwas 28 years old and had a promising career in the world of music.

Inspector Harry Pierce, homicide expert, was ordered to make an investigation after furnishings in the apartment were found to be upset, indicating a struggle had taken place.

Another suspicious angle was the finding ajar of a door leading from the apartment into the hallway. A blood-stained razor blade was found on a windowsill in the bathroom.

The door, half opened, led to the discovery of the tragedy.

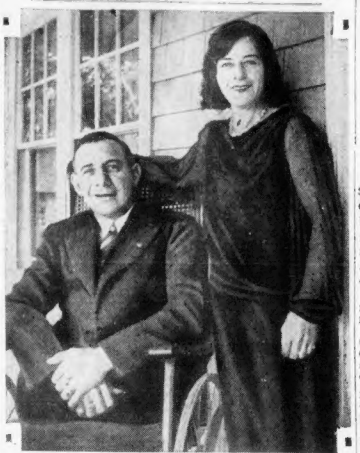
Mrs. Helen Arker, who occupies the apartment next to that of Vartanian on the third floor, was passing through the hall and glanced in. She summoned Harry Compage, another neighbor, who called the police.

Vartanian's mother, Mrs. Nardine Darbinian, lives on the second floor. She said her son had no reason to take his own life.

He recently returned from Crawford Notch, N. H., where he spent the summer, and was planning to resume his concerts and teaching of pianoforte.

He was a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music and in 1928 the winner of the Mason & Hamlin prize of pianoforte at a concert in Jordan Hall. He was a native of South Russia and had many friends among members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

COURAGE WINS HIM BRIDE



Courage and suffering of John Lonroth, legless former sailor, of Shrewsbury, won the love of Mrs. Hattie Johnson, who nursed him through 93 operations in Worcester Hospital, and they will marry Monday.

NURSE TO WED LEGLESS VET

Shrewsbury, Oct. 1—The marriage next Monday of Mrs. Hattie Johnson, a nurse, and John Lonroth, legless former sailor, will culminate a romance which started in Worcester Hospital after the war.

The couple met when Lonroth entered the hospital for an operation upon his legs, paralyzed through a spinal injury incurred when he was blown from his hammock during a tropic hurricane while serving in the navy.

Lonroth's leg nerves were injured, and the operations failed to restore them. In all, Lonroth submitted to 93 operations, and eventually his legs were amputated.

The nurse became interested in her patient, and the interest developed into love as she observed his courage and suffering.

Yesterday the couple filed marriage intentions here and said the ceremony would be performed next Monday.

AIR WEDDING HIT BLOW BY WIND

Worcester, Oct. 1—Oh! The troubles of a press agent.

George Witham, p. a. for the New England Fair, thought he had a good job until a high wind entered his life today.

He thought of a wedding in a balloon, won the approval of John Dignan and Ruth Smizer, circus sweethearts, and then "sold" the idea to local newspapers.

The die was cast for high noon today.

Then came the wind, the couple balked, and George went into a conference with himself. The couple agreed to marry—but on terra firma.

A wedding in sulkies, on the vaudeville stage, on the race track—all were discarded as too tame. A ceremony atop a "tonic horse" would give too much publicity to the tonic.

SONGBIRD FLOPS IN FIGHT FOR HALF MILLION

Court Decides Lydia Lindgren Has No Evidence to Make Otto Kahn Pay

New York, Oct. 1 (INS)—The $500,000 suit brought against Otto H. Kahn, art patron and banker, by Madame Lydia Lindgren, Swedish singer, was dismissed today by Supreme Court Justice Druhan in Long Island City.

Justice Druhan held that the plaintiff had failed to establish a prima facie case.

The singer charged Kahn failed to keep a promise to pay her $160,000 after she had withdrawn a slander suit against Mme. Julia Claussen, a rival singer.

With sobs and gestures, Mme. Lindgren asserted Kahn paid her only $13,000.

DEBONAIR AND CAREFREE

Mr. Kahn, debonair and snowy-haired, took the stand yesterday. He looked exactly as a multi-millionaire art patron should. He was on the stand two minutes, and answered six questions.

He glanced at his former protegee, Mme. Lindgren, just once. She kept her face turned from the witness box, and wept.

The questions which were put to Kahn by Emil Baar were:

What is your name?"

A.—"Otto H. Kahn."

Q.—Mr. Kahn, are you married?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Where do you live?

A.—Fifth ave., Manhattan.

Q.—I take it for granted that you are happily married.

A.—Yes.

Q.—Have you any children?

A.—Yes, four. Two boys and two girls. (He named them.)

Q.—How old are you?

A.—Sixty-four.

FLOODS OF TEARS

Mme. Lindgren, who is known as the "Swedish Nightingale," told of her coming to this country in 1913 and of her operatic career.

With many tears Mme. Lindgren described the generosity of Mr. Kahn towards her, although she did not clearly state what inspired it.

He gave her a $150.00 trust fund, promised to remember her in his will and to give her a life income of $5,000 a year, she testified in broken English.

And then came her difficulties with Mme. Julia Claussen, her rival. They culminated in her $250,000 slander suit against Mme. Claussen, which was withdrawn, she said, when Kahn promised her the annuity and enough money to restore her to her former financial status.

MISS TERRY TO GO TO RENO

New York, Oct. 1—The American today says Ethelind Terry, prima donna of "Rio Rita" and other music shows, will leave soon for Reno to divorce R. E. Bogeaus, rich Chicago apartment hotel owner.

The newspaper quotes the actress mother, Mrs. Mary G. Terry, as saying:

"Yes, we have decided upon a divorce. Her marriage was a mistake. She has not seen her husband in five months, doesn't know where he is and isn't anxious to find out."

In 1929, when Miss Terry's engagement to Martin R. Jones, Jr., was broken, she was quoted as saying:

"I will marry no one but a millionaire."

She married Bogeaus a few months later.

ELECTION NEAR FOR BRITAIN

London, Oct. 1 (INS)—The movement for a general election gained momentum today, despite refusal of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald to commit himself definitely after announcing Parliament would adjourn next Wednesday.

Lord Reading, foreign secretary, and leading Liberal in the coalition government, conferred with King George, and later Stanley Baldwin, Conservative chieftain, visited the King.

Sir John Simon, leader of 50 Liberals who have detached themselves from David Lloyd George, said he believed an election was coming "immediately," and that his group would support the national coalition.

NEW HAVEN TOLD TO PLAY FAIR

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Examiner Sullivan recommended to the Interstate Commerce Commission today that it approve continuance of the Long Island Sound steamship services of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co., but that the company be censured for interfering with the charter of a steamer to the Colonial Navigation Co.

The railroad's Sound service has been in existence many years, being used in combination to effect economies in operation in the vicinity of New York.

During 1929 the Colonial chartered a steamer from the Baltimore Steam Packet Company. Correspondence put in evidence showed an official of the New Haven protested and was informed that the steamer would not be chartered again to the Colonial "except under condition that the steamer shall not be used as an instrument for the reduction of any rates."

The Colonial was unable to charter the ship in 1930, but later, with the New Haven concurring, the Baltimore company chartered a vessel to the Eastern Steamship Lines.

This was construed by the examiner as interference with charter of the ship to the Colonial.

Labor Hunting Way to Put the Man Back on Job

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 1 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor will try to evolve at its convention here October 5 to 16 a way to put its workless workingmen back on the job.

Shorter hours, coupled with increased hourly pay, are proposed in one plan to be submitted to the convention. Its sponsors argue it would balance the increased use of machinery in many industries.

A "back-to-school" movement also will be advocated to reduce the number of children in industry and make room for adults.

The executive council of the federation has approved a model old-age pension bill. It provides for a maximum income of not more than $9 a week to indigents over the age of 65.

HOOVER REGIME UPHOLDS GOLD

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Hoover administration sees no reason for tampering with this country's gold standard or the return to bimetalism.

In official circles, where this position was made clear today, agitation for a return to bi-metalism was described as coming chiefly from senators representing silver-producing states.

Temporary abandonment of the gold base by Great Britain and several other European countries was regarded as not reflecting a permanent policy.

In Salt Lake City Senator Key Pittman, Democrat, of Nevada, predicted a collapse of this country's foreign trade unless the United States acts to reduce the wide disparity between the value of gold and silver. He advocates calling an international silver conference.

BULLET CLUE IN SLAYING

Waterville, Me., Oct. 1—While officials believe a married woman may hold the solution of the murder of Abraham Levine, they renewed their grilling today of Mrs. Eleaner Johnson, Negress housekeeper, following discovery of a 32-caliber bullet among her effects.

The cartridge of the same caliber as the four bullets found in the body of the slain youth after he was murdered in his farmhouse, was discovered by Deputy Sheriff Gideon Maheu, Jr.

Mrs. Johnson claimed she knew nothing about the bullet.

Officials are also working on the theory the dead youth refused to go to a dance with his brother last Saturday because of a "heavy date" with some married woman. It is thought an enraged husband might have slain the youth.

GANDHI FIGHTS SALT TAX RISE

London, Oct. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald convened the minorities committee of the Indian round table conference today and it adjourned at once until next Thursday on motion of Mahatma Gandhi to allow him time to negotiate further with the Moslem leader, Aga Khan, on relations between Hindus and Moslems. Aga Khan seconded the motion, which was protested by Dr. D. R. Ambedkar, representing the "untouchables."

Gandhi today registered a protest against new tax increases embodied in the special budget introduced in the Indian legislative assembly several days ago, particularly that on salt.

"At this distance I do not understand the implications," he said, "but it has horrified me to find that the poor man's salt has also come in for increased taxation."

10 STATES WILL AID OWN NEEDY

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Twin Missouri now in line, ten states have assured President Hoover they will strive to help their own unemployed this winter.

Completion of an organization in Missouri "to care for its unemployed" was announced today by President Hoover.

The President received a telegram from Governor Caulfield informing him of the setup and said he was "glad" to announce it.

"The following states in addition to Missouri," the President said, "have indicated their ability to undertake their own problem:

"Rhode Island, Indiana, Michigan, Connecticut, Illinois, New York, California, West Virginia and Delaware."

"Sleeping Potion" Wife Recovering

Ethel May Nelson, blonde member of a vaudeville team, whose name was placed on the danger list at City Hospital Sunday as a result of an overdose of a sleeping potion, was declared to be "up and around and fairly comfortable" today.

She had been in a serious condition when taken to the hospital by her husband, who explained she had taken sedative pills at Westerly, R. I., and became violently ill.

ELY WON'T PLAY CURLEY AT GOLF

Gov. Ely today jokingly declined to accept Mayor Curley's suggestion that they play a game of golf with the Democratic nomination for Governor as the prize. He intimated that if the mayor of Boston is seeking the nomination, the place to win it is at the polls, and not on a golf course.

"I don't see as it's necessary to play for it in that way," said Gov. Ely.

Then, in referring to his ability and that of the mayor at golf, he added:

"I suggest we both take lessons from Ouimet."

During a dinner to Francis Ouimet, national amateur golf champion, at the Copley-Plaza last night Governor Ely, the first speaker, said he and Mayor Curley were in the same class as golfers.

Later Mayor Curley said of the governor:

"I feel confident I could give him a stroke a hole and win in a match for governor, and I could give the Republican nominee two strokes a hole—and win."

Today the mayor said:

"I think I will have to cut down the handicap I suggested last night. My own handicap was 28; I think it is now about 12."

WETS SEEK VOTE TO GET LINEUP

Washington, Oct. 1 (INS)—Congressional wets may block organization of the House until both Republican and Democratic leaders agree to put prohibition to a vote, it was learned today.

The plan would have a far-reaching effect in view of the close division in the new House.

The vote on referendum is designed to put all members of Congress on record in the 1932 elections.

Unless there are upsets in six elections to be held within five weeks for vacancies in the House, the question of control will remain in doubt until a vote for speaker actually is taken.

Boy Fined $25 for Speeding at Rate of 87 Miles Hour

Speeding at 87 miles an hour, a Watertown motorcycle officer was unable to catch a speeding cyclist, the officer testified today in Waltham court.

On the strength of the officer's testimony, Charles Maniago, 19, of Charles st., Waltham, was sent to jail in lieu of a $25 fine imposed by Judge Connolly.

It was Maniago's second arrest for speeding in three days, the first fine costing him $5.

Officer Thomas Dawley testified to the terrific speed, stating he chased Maniago through School st., Watertown and had to summon him because he was unable to catch him then.

Maniago pleaded that his motorcycle was "tuned down" to 70 miles an hour. His first arrest was on North eBacon st., for a speed of 50 miles an hour.

11 IN OLD 'TUB' MISSING AT SEA

San Pedro, Calif., Oct. 1 (AP)—A heavy sea swept by a southeast gale held in mystery today the whereabouts of the old four-masted schooner Philippine, with 11 persons aboard, and only one experienced seaman, Nels Nelson, the skipper.

The Philippine left Oakland Saturday, and it had been reported was to be brought here to be remodeled for use on a honeymoon voyage by Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton and her husband, David Hutton.

The passengers on the vessel included Duff Lohes of Biloxi, Miss., former Tulane University football player, and a group of California lawyers.

FOREIGN BONDS OFFER CHANCE OF BIG PROFIT

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Holders of foreign bonds that would bring only $1,760,000 in the open market can redeem them today for a total of $3,550,000.

These bonds have been drawn by lot for redemption at par under sinking fund provisions. Some fortunate holders of drawn numbers can redeem their bonds for cash amounting to two, three, four and even five times what they could get for them in the open market, even though the bonds are virtually all payable in gold dollars, and not directly affected by fluctuations of other currencies.

DOUBLE MARKET PRICE

Bankers for the Republic of Brazil are redeeming $413,300 of that country's bonds at par, while recent market prices have been around one-fifth of that. Brazil has announced this redemption will be the last until economic conditions improve in that country.

Holders of 651 bonds of the Free State of Prussia will be able to redeem them on Oct. 15 at $1000 per bond par value, while they are now selling around one-third of that. Poland's 8 per cent issue has thus far been regularly drawn by lot for redemption at somewhat above par to the extent of 2 per cent of the entire issue annually, but the bonds are quoted in the market at little more than half of par.

TAKE LONG CHANCES

In the more palmy days of finance some speculators, particularly in London, made a practice of buying a few depressed bonds just before drawings in the hope of holding a few lucky numbers.

Americans have never shown much interest in this sort of speculation and, in these times, traders in London have little heart for it.

As a matter of fact, the chance of drawing a number is a long one, for semi-annual drawings usually amount to only one or one-half of 1 per cent of the issue.

BOY SOBS OVER RUINED $25,000 VIOLIN

Young Master's Heart Broken by the Sudden Loss of His "Best Friend"

New York, Oct. 1 (INS)—The voice of the true artist expressed itself today when Harry Braun poured out his heart in grieving for his lost friend.

His "friend" was his $25,000 violin, ground to splinters beneath the wheels of a truck. The valuable instrument was given to Braun by August Heckscher, the philanthropist, and Braun had planned to use it when he opened his winter concert season at Carnegie Hall in January.

LOST BEST "FRIEND"

But now Braun must make other plans.

"It was as if I had lost the token of victory over ten years of struggle," Braun said. "When I was ten years old my mother bought me a ten-dollar violin and through the years I have struggled until I achieved something to be cherished—and now it is merely splinters.

"I have played upon the instrument in many important appearances. It seems as if one of my own flesh and blood has perished."

"I was crossing a street while the lights were with me when a truck, impatiently dashed ahead of traffic. It startled me and I accidentally dropped the Guarnerius violin that was made in Italy in 1801.

CRUSHED BY WHEELS

"I wheeled to pick it up but the truck was bearing down so rapidly that all I could do was yell to the driver. With a snarl and curses, he deliberately and maliciously drove over it.

"At first I was dazed, but then came the full realization of what lay before me. They say that I was crying when I entered the police station to report the affair. I don't doubt it, who wouldn't?

"With that precious violin and the sponsoring of Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, I made many appearances in recitals that I will have to cherish alone now.

"I am the youngest artist to hold the honor of having performed in the Metropolitan Opera. I appeared there in 1923 when I was only 18 years old. With my violin I made a tour of Europe, appearing as guest artist in London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna.

MUST BORROW VIOLIN

"I hold the distinction of being the only artist to ever play in the New York state capitol, having played before Gov. Roosevelt some two years ago.

"Now, I will have to find another instrument for my debut. Although I may find a violin that is as good or even better than the one I lost, I feel that the loyal instrument should be present to share the honors with me."

Sponsored by Lieut.-Gov. Lehman of New York and Gov. Cross of Connecticut, young Braun will make his debut at Carnegie Hall on Jan. 12 with a borrowed violin.

JOB, HUSBAND, OR NEITHER?

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Divorcing married women from their jobs as an emergency unemployment measure is being busily denounced here by organized women.

Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the woman's bureau of the Department of Labor, pronounced "this growing practice" an "unsound economic policy," which "penalizes that stabilizing force—family life."

Feministic Miss Muna Lee, in private life Mrs. Luis Munoz-Marin, secretary of the National Woman's Party, said:

"If employers keep on dismissing married women, they will abolish marriage. Women must have jobs to live. Couples may settle the matter by living together or living apart, but they won't marry."

Mrs. Shockley to Welcome Cookery School Questions

"If the housewives of Boston are like those elsewhere they will ask lots of questions next week," declared Mrs. J. Watson Shockley, who is director at the annual Boston American-Martha Lee cooking school at the Hotel Statler next week.

"Not only does every woman have certain bothersome recipes which never seem to come out right, but the up-and-doing ones want to know about new dishes.

"Certain cakes are popular in New England. Many women of the Middle West have old-fashioned short cuts that they follow in meat cookery. Some sprightly new housekeepers of the big cities follow entirely different methods.

"I have made it my business to meet them all, to visit all parts of the country and observe and learn, so that I may convey to the annual Boston American cooking pupils, the best home-making methods in vogue today. I do hope that they will ask me lots of questions. There will be a question box at every session and they may write as many as they like. I shall answer the questions in the lectures and while I cook, or in person at the end of each session."

The cooking school promises to be the biggest and best housewives' forum ever presented to the women of Boston. It will be a veritable convention where housewives may meet Mrs. Shockley, a national authority, Martha Lee and with each other, to discuss their mutual problems. New kitchen and home equipment, new food products, new ways to use both the equipment of the foods for easier and better homemaking will be featured in each session.

The grand ballroom of the Statler has been obtained by the Boston Evening American for the cooking school. The doors will be opened at 1 p. m. each day except on Wednesday, when they will not be opened until 2:30.

WATSON WARNS 'BEAR' RAIDERS

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Unless the stock exchanges themselves act, Senator Watson of Indiana believes Congress will legislate safeguards against short selling by speculators who seek profits through depression of security values.

The Republican leader of the Senate has warned the exchanges that members of Congress were convinced these transactions were retarding recovery from the depression and stood ready to inquire into the practice.

Because of his position as administration pilot on Capitol Hill, it was believed here Senator Watson reflected also the view of high government officials toward the recent bear raids.

Judge Avery Ends 30 Years on Bench at Quincy Today

One of the founders of the probation system in Massachusetts, Judge Albert E. Avery, 70, today will complete his 30th year as presiding justice at the Quincy District Court.

Tonight he will be tendered a reception at the Adams Shore home of Mrs. Emma S. Toussaint, member of the State Industrial Board, by attorneys, police court attaches and friends.

Other justices at the court, Judges Kenneth Nash Kenneth D. Johnson and Thomas J. McAnarney, will be present.

LABOR HEAD FOR 5 BILLION LOAN

New York, Oct. 1.—The only way to halt the depression at once is for President Hoover to call a special session of Congress to pass the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan John J. Sullivan, president of the New York State Federation of Labor, said last night.

Sullivan, who is one of the three members of the commission which will meet today in Albany to start administration of the state's $20,000,000 unemployment relief fund, also said the Volstead act should be amended.

Word 'Obey' Omitted as Unnecessary in Aimee's Marriage

Accompanying is the fourth chapter of Aimee Semple McPherson's own story of her romance with David Hutton, the singer whom she married in a sensational airplane elopement.

By Aimee Semple McPherson

High Priestess of Angelus Temple, Los Angeles, Cal.

(Copyright, 1931.)

Los Angeles, Oct. 1 (US)—Only one newspaper was apprised in advance of my elopement with David Hutton, but the other Los Angeles papers got wind of it during the morning. Reporters and cameramen came in hordes to my home adjoining the temple.

I finally gathered them all in the house at one time and Dave and I were interviewed and photographed until I thought it never would end. But the reporters never seemed to run out of questions and the photographers had an endless supply of plates for their cameras.

When night came, I had to ask for a respite from interviews while I listened on the radio to the evening sermon at the temple.

Waits for Flock's Reaction

It was arranged for Dr. Shreve, chairman of the elders, to announce my wedding to the congregation and I waited with fear and trembling to the reaction.

Will it be all right? Will they make my happiness their happiness? What if they disapprove? These questions and a hundred more like them ran through my head.

And then Dr. Shreve told them of my marriage.

There was a moment of deathly silence. They were stunned—simply stunned. My heart sank. I gripped Dave's hand tightly.

And then someone clapped his hands. Then another. A ripple of applause broke out. It became a mighty roar, and I knew everything was all right.

"Obey" Omitted

Later there was an impromptu reception in my house.

There was some comment afterwards because it was noticed that there weren't any "obeys" in my wedding ceremony. However, that was not an oversight. It was intentional.

Dave and I both felt that the word "obey" was not necessary.

I did not wear a wedding gown when married. I flew to Yuma in a black and white satin ensemble but changed before the ceremony to a Saxon blue three pieced suit trimmed in blue fox fur and a blue Eugenie hat of the same shade with shoes and bag to match.

You know the old adage runs: "Married in blue, your love will be true."

My elopement was one of the most dramatic moments in my career. But there were others.

Life's Highlights

As I look back over my life, a strange mixture of joy and sorrow to me and newspaper headlines for the public, seven episodes—dramatic moments—stand out in bold relief.

Right now I would list them as follows:

(1) My conversion at the age of 17 on a snow-blown country road in Canada.

(2) The death of Robert Semple, my first husband, in China, 20 years ago, and the birth of my first child, Roberta, there.

(3) The dedication and opening of my church, Angelus Temple, in Los Angeles.

(4) The appearance and lights of Agua Prieta, Mexico, after I had escaped from kidnapers in the desert in 1926.

(5) My acquittal on a charge of concocting a kidnaping hoax.

(6) My airplane elopement and marriage to David L. Hutton at Yuma, Ariz., on September 13 last.

(7) My meeting in San Quentin prison, California, with Asa Keyes, now a convict, who as district attorney of Los Angeles tried to send me to the penitentiary in connection with my kidnaping.

Going back to my acceptances of the gospel, I can see a country road which wound along the five miles from Ingersoll, Canada, to my parents' farmhouse. It was lined with deep snowdrifts and covered with a canopy of twinkling bright stars.

I was a 17-year-old high school girl then, wrapped up in amateur theatricals, but the words of an evangelist, Robert Semple, whom I was to marry and whom I had heard preach but a few days previously, rang like trumpet notes in my ears.

"Repent! Repent!"

The flaming two-edged sword of the word of God had flashed in his upraised hand like lightning.

As I rode in the sleigh, I could stand the torture no longer, and I lifted my hands and cried:

"God, be merciful to me."

Instantly an almost indescribably cleansing and healing light streamed over my soul.

A short time later Mr. Semple and I were married and went to China to preach.

Tomorrow Aimee will tell how she founded the Angelus Temple and something of how she was kidnaped.

AIMEE PLANS TO FLY HERE

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 1—Severely sunburned, Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, pastor of Angelus Temple, was forced to quit her duties today. Her eyes swelled and her eyesight was temporarily impaired.

The evangelist announced she would make her trip to Boston by air if her congregation would permit it. She did some work on her new oratorio, "The Crimson Road," which is a part of the dramatization of a sermon.

The evangelist outlined her sermons for the eastern campaign. The first will be "The Crimson Road," and others are "Back to the Book," "My Country 'Tis of Thee," "From Milk Pail to Pulpit," "Four Square Gospel" and "The Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight."

HEARST MAKES GIFT TO PARK

Chicago, Oct. 1—A valuable group of rare mammals from the California ranch of William Randolph Hearst was added today to the collection of the Chicago Academy of Sciences in Lincoln Park.

The new specimens were trapped and shot on the ranch by R. L. Boke, field representative of the academy. They include most of the small rodents native to California.

Among them are gray squirrels, California deer mice, pocket gophers and a large variety of desert rabbits.

The six-week survey by the Chicago collector was the first of its kind on the huge ranch. The entire territory was thrown open to the scientist and he was allowed to hunt and set his traps wherever he pleased. His horses and much of his equipment were supplied by Mr. Hearst.

The estate, according to Mr. Boke, provides the greatest field for the study of natural history in the world.

Guzzi in Newton Race

Alfred V. Guzzi of 8 Mague ave., West Newton, has announced that he will be a candidate for alderman-at-large, the office now held by Benjamin J. Bowen. Guzzi ran last year against Alderman William F. Chase, but was defeated.

Brazilian Airman Killed

Rio De Janeiro, Oct. 1—Sergt. Oliveira Chaves was killed and a student flier was injured when an army aviation school plane crashed late yesterday. The plane struck and injured an 11-year-old boy.

Thrilling undersea fights between man and sea monsters and between the sea creatures themselves are portrayed in Cheverlange's marine pictures. Reproductions of these pictures, in colors, are shown in the American Weekly in the next Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Betty Alden

WE HAVE VERY LITTLE TO SAY TODAY, WHICH IS probably just as well for our readers. Later on we are going out to the Dedham Polo & Country Club to their first annual luncheon and meeting and will make a few fashion notes to beguile you with tomorrow. Maybe we will take a few snapshots as evidence.

EDITH WOLCOTT

There isn't any news. Pesky, we call it. In spite of a successful season in prospect, things are quiet on the Hill. So far all of the debutante affairs have been given out of town, which is unusual and difficult for the "soc" editor who loathes motoring.

Events will liven up the end of the week. Madelyn Phillips will step out at a small dance at the home of her parents, Windyknoh, at Wenham. Madelyn is the daughter of the John C. Phillipses and niece of Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips who was Uncle Sam's representative in Canada a few years ago. Mrs. John Phillips was a Miss Hyde of Maine, of the Bath Iron Works Hydes to be exact. She is very pretty and a talented singer. Whether or not her budding daughter inherits her musical ability, we cannot say; she more closely resembles her father in face and figure.

* * *

AS A SUB-DEB SHE WAS NOT AS WELL KNOWN AS were some of the other North Shore girls, having been away a good deal at school and out West. That should make her the more interesting. We will have more to say about Miss Phillips when she has been out a few months. Time reveals much.

Miss Eleanor Mason to Wed Saturday

ON THAT SAME DAY, WHICH IS SATURDAY, THE third, there are four weddings, one at Ipswich. Miss Eleanor Mason will be married to Edward Timothy Buxton, Jr.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. JOHN C. ELLSWORTH have cards out for a luncheon on Sunday for Alice (Bobsie) Ellsworth, who is one of the debutantes this fall. We can remember Bobsy when she attended the Shore school at Waverly Farms and what a handsome, wholesome looking child she was. As we have mentioned so many times in the good old phrase of bygone days—she resembles her father's folks. And, he is a very handsome man. Mrs. Ellsworth is petite, with a delicate beauty which she has given to her two married daughters, Mrs. Alexander Agassiz Shaw and Mrs. C. Douglas Dillon. Alice is more Junonesque and if she plays up to her TYPE should be one of the most beautiful buds of this season. And this calls for simple naturalness and no affectations. She has lovely deep eyes and a charming smile—the boys like her.

A WEEK HENCE THE FALL race meets take place, one on the 10th at Medfield, when the Norfolk Hunt Club gather, and a week later at Hamilton at the Myopia Hunt Club. We think someone should write an article on "How to keep horses on a limited income" or "Budgeting the horse." In these trying times, when everyone seems to be looking into the yawning jaws of the wolf, we might say, "Throw him a horse."

* * *

GLORIA BRAGGIOTTI OF Beekman Place, N. Y., is also visiting on the Cape.

* * *

MRS. S. HUNTINGTON WOLCOTT and her daughter, Miss Edith, are in New York. Miss Wolcott is secretary of the Infants' Hospital committee for this season. Their first benefit night will be Tuesday, next, at the Plymouth, when the Professional Players present "As You Desire Me" with Judith Anderson.

* * *

MRS. WILLIAM H. BROWN of Cohasset is prohibiting again. She is one of the leaders of the W. C. T. U. and Law Enforcement League to mention only a few of the welfare organizations in which she is interested. She regards the movement for prohibition as part of the scheme for social betterment, and her colleagues are Mrs. James J. Storrow—who gave a million dollars to the Charles River Basin development—and we wish she had consulted US first because we burst into tears whenever we see a cartload of dirt fill in that beautiful river, which is none too wide as it is—we digress, but we would really like to write a column about it—Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Mrs. Arthur H. Brooks and Mrs. Langdon Frothingham. These busy ladies will speak over the radio on Oct. 9—if you are interested—from station WBSO at 2:60 o'clock.

Italian League Will Plan Fall Program

Members of the Italian Junior League, of Boston will hold their first meeting of the season next Monday evening at the home of Miss Palmyra M. Albee, of Ashland st., Dorchester.

Miss Louise Rotti, president of the league; Miss Stella Aieta, vice-president; Miss Olga Antanicelo, recording secretary; Miss Clara Forte, corresponding secretary; Miss Marion Rotti, treasurer; Miss Palmyra M. Albree, Miss Marion Mercurio and Mrs. Edith Gardini, will plan for fall activities.

VINCENT CLUB HOLDS FIRST FALL MEETING AT DEDHAM CLUB

Plans for New Show Before Members

The Vincent Club luncheon brings a large gathering to the Dedham Country and Polo Club today, for the first meeting since the one in June. Plans for the show, which will come off next March as usual, are to be discussed, Mrs. William Cox (Jessie Bancroft), the president, taking the chair.

Will Wed Soon

Miss Harriet Morse, last year's president, is to be present, though it will probably be the last one she will attend for some time, her approaching marriage to Mr. George Putnam Sturgis, on October 12, keeping her busy.

Several members have announced their engagements since that last meeting notably among them that of Miss Grace Cushing, the club secretary, to Mr. Charles L. Hibard, Jr., and congratulations are in order.

Miss Elizabeth Hovey, the newest and youngest officer, elected last spring, is also on hand, and will take part in a great deal of the club work this year. And soon, of course, the debbies will be under discussion for membership. What expectations!

Essex County Dance

A last minute affair for two debutantes came off yesterday, besides a dance at the Essex County Club given by Mr. and Mrs. Otis Weld Richardson, in honor of their daughter, Miss Polly. It was a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. John C. Ellsworth, at which both Miss Alice Ellsworth and Miss Dorothy Forbes were honored. The luncheon took place at Wayside, the Manchester summer home of the Ellsworths, which they keep open late into the season.

Miss Babette Morison, who with three other friends of Miss Richardson, is staying as a house-guest at the Richardsons' Magnolia home, will have a house party in October for about a dozen of her friends at the Peterborough estate of Mrs. Wilbur S. Mayo.

Several informal entertainments have been planned for the group of young people during that week-end, concluding with a luncheon on Monday.

AMONG ENGAGED GROUP

MISS RUTH WELLINGTON with her fiance, Mr. Frank Shaw, Jr., at one of the recent weddings. Their engagement was announced last winter, but they have not as yet made any wedding plans.

New Hats Aid to Wearers' Charms

By ANN ARDEN

Those who lived before the cloche hat era know what a kind hat means. Those who are younger have something in the way of a surprise coming to them.

Delightfully flattering and wearable with many costumes is the black hatters plush hat pictured, the edge of its narrow brim wired that its provocative curves may remain at the proper angles. The smooth round crown is banded in narrow satin ribbon, while two small ostrich tips, one peach and one Nile green, are in center front.

The other hat, smart to wear with more tailored costumes, is a clever model by Caroline Reboux, in billiard green felt. Black moire ribbon is daringly banded horizontally across center of crown, starting under tip till brim, finishing in loops and ends on opposite side, and emerging as fly-away bow from under slit back of crown.

Grand Duke Will Visit America This Month

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER

New York, Oct. 1 (US)—A few weeks hence Mayfairites will be called upon to fete the Grand Duke Dmitri and his American born wife, who is known in European society as the Princess Ilyinsky.

For the first time in his very eventful life, the tall and handsome Dmitri, first cousin of the ill-fated Czar of Russia and titular head of the remaining members of the Russian imperial family, will visit the U. S. A.

The Grand Duke Dmitri married, just five years ago, Audrey Emory, of this city, daughter of the Hon. Mrs. Alfred Anson, and heiress to a part of the Emory millions.

Audrey has the distinction of being the only American girl who ever has married a Russian grand duke.

Dmitri, his wife and their small son, three years old, will land on the Ile de France on October 22.

Pajama Party Tops Biarritz Season

By BARON GEORGE WRANGEL

Universal Service Staff Correspondent

Biarritz, Oct. 1.—Some of the biggest parties of the season were reserved for its close. Most of the summer's visitors have agreed that the dinner dance given at the Chambre D'Amour swimming pool by Madame Vera Mazzuchi came close to capping the season's climax. Everyone wore pajamas.

Among the notables present was Miss Alva Sergeant, of Philadelphia, who wore a pair of satin pajamas as elaborate as a dinner dress.

The Hon. Mrs. Alfred Anson wore a black satin beach dress which had the richness of an opera gown. Miss Barbara Brokaw, of St. Louis, was in pale blue with a vermilion headdress and scarf, while Miss Madeline Forbes and Miss Tillie Harvey appeared in the popular green so much worn here.

Others noted were the Grand Duke Boris, Grand Duke Dmitri and his wife, the former Audrey Emory, of Washington.

Elbow Macaroni with Peanut Butter

½ pkg. Mueller's Elbow Macaroni
1 cup peanut butter
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. paprika
2 cups tomato sauce
1 tbsp. parsley, minced
¾ cup breadcrumbs
1½ tbsps. flour
1½ cups milk

Parboil elbow macaroni 7 min. in 2 qts. rapidly boiling water to which ½ tbsp. salt has been added. Drain. Stir peanut butter into elbow macaroni, a teaspoon at a time. Cover and set in warm place until peanut butter melts and blends in. Add salt, paprika and parsley. Then mix in crumbs. Add flour to milk, first rubbing to smooth paste with small quantity of milk. Pour into elbow macaroni mixture. Blend thoroughly. Pour into well-greased baking dish, cover top with crumbs and dot with peanut butter. Bake until brown or about 20 min. Serve with tomato sauce.

NO food is more nourishing and digestible than elbow macaroni—but it has to be the best.

That means Mueller's. "Just any kind" will not offer the appetizing appeal that coaxes youngsters to eat heartily. "Just any kind" will not supply the high nutrition, or the extreme lightness and "fluffiness" that cause quick, easy digestion.

Mueller's Elbow Macaroni has all these qualities in an uncqualled degree. It is made by special processes from the heart of the wheat, the most nourishing part. It cooks up better.

It is made in the convenient shape that young people prefer. Give them a treat today. Your grocer has Mueller's, or can get it for you.

A TROUBLED WORLD MAKES EXCITING HUMAN BEINGS

By GILBERT SELDES

I had just received "a line of encouragement and appreciation," signed with initials only and thanking me for helping "a busy reader to arrive at definite conclusions on topics of the moment," when the U. S. mail, great master of irony, brought me another communication. It never had occurred to me that I had helped to solve the problems of unemployment or had shed much light on the gold standad—I had been trying to do something else. But I respond to flattery, as I find most men do, and probably would have a warm feeling for anyone who told me I had remarkable red hair and a perfect voice for the talkies, not to mention a plentiful wit—none of which is true.

GILBERT SELDES

* * *

No Flattery

The second letter forced a revision of my self-estimate. I stopped purring.

"Why," wrote John Forrest, "do you try to write about economics and politics from time to time? Isn't there enough tragedy in the real world without going to newspaper writers for more? Seriously, I am not trying to annoy you and I certainly do not want to flatter you. Why should I? After all, I pay for the pleasure of reading you, such as it is, and if you're good, that only to be expected. You're paid for it.

"What I really want to know is this: Why are we all so taken up with big problems? You aren't an economist any more than I am. Yet you feel obliged to discuss problems so intricate that the best minds of the world, the experts in the field, can't solve them. I suppose you are the modern equivalent of an essayist. Well, read Addison and Steele and Charles Lamb. In your position (more or less) they wrote about the coming of spring and what women were coming to and about roast pig. Often you do the same. (Editor's Note: Not if I know it.) But you fall under the terrific pressure of events.

The Real Trouble

"Isn't the real trouble with the world that we are all too economic conscious? If we hadn't been so busy speculating a few years ago, and if we had taken a little time off to read or bowl or loaf, wouldn't we be better off now? Honestly, wouldn't you rather write about Joe Cook than about Hoover?"

To the last question, a fervent yes; and what is more, I intend to, almost at once, having just heard Joe Cook in a brilliant radio broadcast. But the rest of the questions take some answering.

The first point is that, in spite of accepting thanks for it, I make no effort to solve economic problems. I know that they are not only beyond me, I suspect that they are beyond everyone else; judging only by results, of course, and with no sneer at any one's capacities. It is as a citizen, a taxpayer and a wage earner that I think I am justified in lifting up my voice. A hundred years ago Congress could pass an embargo act and affect only a small section of the country; today our leaders can't turn in their sleep (as Maynard Keynes puts it) without touching the lives of every one of us. Few, perhaps, can argue the wisdom of economic measures; but all of us can—and I think ought to—say what we think of the way these measures are passed.

The Human Side

Mr. Hoover, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Swope, Mr. MacDonald are not only economic and political machines; they are human beings. And there is a specific human side to their activities which requires (or at least invites) comment. I have never disputed the wisdom of avoiding the dole in America; but I have noted what I thought was noteworthy—that in this connection Mr. Hoover seems to be satisfied with a negative, as if "he kept us off the dole" would be a sufficient epitaph for the administration.

The fact that economists make a mess of economics is a standing invitation to others—to criticise and to make a still worse mess if they get into power; but the fact that they still ask implicit confidence from the non-expert is an entirely human foible which may be mentioned without hurting any one.

It isn't within my power to solve the problem of unemployment; but at least I can say that it is an egregious and unnecessary offense to call the unemployed "idle." Calling them one thing or the other will not change the actual situation; but the psychological situation of people who sit smugly in comfortable chairs and use the same words for tramps and for decent men looking for work, may be changed.

"No matter how deeply a blonde falls in love she can never submerge herself, while a brunette falls in love and loses herself entirely in the man she loves," says Professor Duval, the French philosopher, in his article on the feminine sex in the American Weekly in the next Boston Sunday Advertiser. "Blondes kill their lovers and brunettes kill themselves," he says.

Steele, Tenor, Pays Alimony, or Else—

New York, Oct. 1 (INS)—Pay $500 alimony at once, or be remanded to the alimony jail club.

That alternative confronted John Steele, tenor, today. Under a court order, he will be imprisoned unless he pays the $500 on account of $30,000 alimony arrears to his first wife, Mabel Stapleton.

She divorced him several years ago. He is now married to Jeanette Hackett, actress.

Army Balloon Ends Flight in Maine

Cornish, Me., Oct. 1 (AP)—Four commissioned officers and a machinist of the aeronautic division of the United States Navy left Lakehurst, N. J., in a balloon last night and landed near here early today. The balloon was piloted by Lieut. C. T. Glendening.

The men said an average speed of 17 miles per hour was maintained on the trip, part of a training course.

Deaths of 4 Men Laid to Carelessness

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—Failure of employes to heed instructions concerning the machine in which they were generating nitro-cellulose gas was the cause of the explosion Sept. 11 at the Eastman Kodak Co. plant, according to Coroner Richard Leonardo, who today gave a verdict of accidental death in the cases of four men killed.

19 Billion in Realty to Be Taxed in N. Y.

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—The tentative assessment of taxable real estate in the city's five boroughs for 1932, as announced today, is $19,296,985,571. The total personal estate assessed within the five boroughs is $736,444,630.

The total increase of the assessment on real estate for 1932 over that of 1931 is tentatively $1,117,-

Two Lawrence Men Are Hurt in Crash

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 1 (AP)—George Snow and Gilbert Michaud, both of Lawrence, were seriously injured early today when their automobile struck a moving freight train after crashing through the gates at the Union Station crossing. They were taken to the Notre Dame Hospital.

Bystanders said that Snow, who was driving the machine, swerved to the left of a line of four automobiles waiting for the freight to pass and plowed through the crossing gates.

Don't Squeeze Blackheads —Dissolve Them

At evening up blackheads makes large, ugly pores. The safe and sure way to get rid of these objectionables is to dissolve them. Just two ounces of Calonite, from any drug store, sprinkle a little on wet face cloth, rub over blackheads, and rinse and, lo, they disappear at once.

RHYTHMIC MUSIC SUPPLANTS THE JAZZ BRAND

THE VOICE OF Broadway
By Louis Sobol

A Little o' This, a Little o' That!

Of Daniel Frohman, the veteran theatrical producer, of the choke collar and the wispy beard, they tell of the time he visited the Actors' Home for the Aged and Infirm, in his official capacity as president. He went from room to room until he noticed that one chamber was kept locked. "Why is that?" he asked the matron. "Oh," she said, apologetically, "some of the people here used to go in there, we found, and carry on, kissing and everything. So we closed it up."

"H'm," replied Frohman, stroking his chin. "Open it up again. If, at the age of 70, they still have such ideas, then for God's sake, let them have the room!"

Typical!

What puzzles me as I grow older and feebler is the insolence of waiters in most of the local restaurants. They don't get much money, I know, having to depend chiefly on tips from the patrons, in view of which, it would appear to me, that good business sense would guide them along the paths of courtesy and politeness. I'm not blasting the whole tribe, understand, but merely pointing the finger at some I've encountered. It may be, too, of course, if I were a waiter I might be no better, particularly if I had to serve a certain type of arrogant patron. Don't think, however, I'm getting excited about the situation. I can think of nothing of less importance. I only bring it up to preface a little incident in which Kelcey Allen, the dramatic critic figured (so he sez). Calling over a waiter, he asked, "Say, would you mind telling me the correct time, please?" To which the fellow replied haughtily, "Sorry, but this isn't my table," and walked away.

A Song for Hoover

Herbert Hoover doesn't know yet, but he will learn before the end of the week, that, although he can't sing a note, a torch ballad has just been turned out, dedicated to him, something tagged, "I Should Have Known Better." The composer is J. Fred Coots, author of a score of hits. Coots, incidentally, is the chap who has just received an ample check from a well known cigarette manufacturer for a slogan, soon to be featured, which announces, "The favorite cigarette of the whole world because they're dated," with none of the amount cut down because of the atrocious grammar. The date of wrapping will be stamped on the front of the package, and that's something, I presume—but not much.

"Last Mile"

"Dear Louis Sobol (writes Lester Edwards): A place you've muffed is called 'The Last Mile,' located in the rear basement of a dilapidated wooden house in the 50's in the shadow of the 'El.' A small electric light hangs over a counter which serves as a bar, over which a darkskin lad dispenses throat scorch for two bits the waterglassful. The stuff is potent. It stupefies and it numbs. That's what the gang wants. The gang—flotsam and jetsam. A character actor of other years' fame. A palsied figure who once was an eminent surgeon in a small town. A much dissipated fellow of about 30 who is recalling the days of the last decade when he was the featured dancer in Broadway productions. A sea-faring man who slaps his two bits down on the counter and drinks the whole glass of hooch, makes a wry face and says in hearse Norwegian accents, 'This stoff will kill me.' Two vaudevillians have had a drink each. They are telling one another how good they are. How, if they could play the Palace, they'd 'ruin' them. A few more drinks, and they're willing to play the gutters. A ragged Negro comes in. 'Gettin' high-toneds, huh? All these yere white folks comin'. They call the place 'Last Mile.' It ought to be 'Journey's End.'"

Show Business!

The Messrs. Weatherly and Wiman, sponsors of "The Third Little Show," learning that a skit in one of Bill Minsky's rough and tumble burlesque shows was patterned after a skeleton in their own revue, dispatched a warning letter that they were preparing to sue. From the unctuous Minsky came back the information that investigation of his files revealed that the skit had been used by the Minskys in burlesque more than 17 years ago. And Weatherly and Wiman have already paid out hundreds of dollars in royalties to the "author" of the skit.

Improvement!

A quiet, unobtrusive chap is the dramatic critic for the soiate Journal of Commerce. Early in his newspaper career he decided that some day he would be writing by-line stuff, and, under the circumstances, it was high time that he fashioned a name that would look good in print. He didn't like the sound of Julius Gampers. So he went into a huddle with himself and, after three weeks of playing around, hit upon the name that he has used since. He calls himself Julius Cohen!

NAME OF THE LAW!

The height of something or other. On the East Side there's a small drug store operated by a genial German. Two months ago a fellow entered and bought some talcum powder, two milk bottles and nipples and a few sundries for a baby. "Only two months old—but you should see him!" he told the druggist. The latter, father of four children, beamed. "Nothing is like having children," he said. "Ach, they are worth everything what you are doing for them." A few days later the stranger came in again and bought some more things for the baby. Three or four times during the next few weeks he visited the drug store, always making small purchases. Finally, two weeks to the day he came in and said: "Gee, Herman, the frau's sick. You haven't got some brandy you could give me, have you?" The druggist shook his head regretfully. "You know how it is, he explained. "I got to have a prescription." The fellow drooped. Finally, the druggist relented. "Well," he said, "I'll tell you, I got a few bottles of rye and I'll give you one without a prescription. But don't tell anyone—it'll make trouble." He handed him a pint of rye. Two seconds later he was under arrest. The friendly stranger was a revenue agent.

HE WANTED TO KNOW!

George Jessel reports that at a recent seance in Hollywood the mystic was astounding the table clutchers with her amazing accuracies of their past, their future—and their wives. "And now," she said solemnly, "is there any question you would like to ask. Any question at all?" From the farthermost recesses of the darkened room came the querulous voice of Groucho Marx. "Yes," he said timidly, "could you please tell me what's the capital of South Dakota?"

Exeter Theater

Constance Bennett in "The Common Law" and Richard Arlen in "The Secret Call" are the attractions at the Exeter for the remainder of the week.

Fabien Sevitsky, New Met Director, Sees Change in Popular Taste

By HARLEH SCHULTZ

Music in the theaters, at elsewhere is on the up-and-up. The Jazz Age is passing, and that music-lovers generally refer to as the better kind, or best ad, is coming back into its own. That is the word from Fabien vitsky, the new musical director at the Metropolitan Theater, he says he speaks from his own experience in testing out the opular taste; he is seeing the change in public favor taking ace right now, he declares. The jazzy jazz has already been his body blow; the rhythmic kind is now the order of the day s the former jazz palaces, while the "best music" is being appuided wherever it is being rendered by good orchestras.

Fabien Sevitsky

"In the few weeks I have been on the job here, I have been trying to elevate the programs, to render better music," said Conductor Sevitsky. "I intend to play many classical overtures to appeal to the 'left' or jazz lovers as well as to the rest who like such music as their own original first and only love. I have been experimenting and I find that patrons are keen for what I am giving them. This reception is proven by the absorbed interest and attention shown, by the applause, and by the thousands of letters received, and by the many persons I meet who make it a point to get introduced to inform me what they think and how pleased they are with my achievement. It makes me very happy."

Sevitsky happens to be a nephew, as many know, of Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Born in Russia, the Met director is now a naturalized citizen of the United States. He likes best New England, he says; and for musical appreciation, Boston.

* * *

In an interview he said to met "I fell in love with New England on what was my first real visit. In 1925 I went to Dorset, Vt., to spend my vacation. There I met a wonderful old lady, a typical New Englander, well bred, with charming personality and vitally vibrant love of life and culture. She was sweet and beautiful. You'll be surprised when I tell you she was 83 years of age then, but what a wonderful woman! Her mind was as keen as mine, or maybe keener; she was posted on all matter of news interest, and literature, and art in general. She was a painter, for one thing—she did landscape. Her work that I saw was finely done.

Well, we became great friends. I remember once she asked me if I were Russian, Polish, or otherwise. I answered that I was Russian. Then, without a flaw, she recited to me, in well toned voice, a poem I knew as a boy, a masterpiece by one of our old Slav poets, Derjawin, one that probably not many Americans are acquainted with.

"She did it perfectly. Well, I just love her for love of Russian literature. Thus, through the friendship of that dear old lady, the widow of a famous Vermont lawyer at Bennington, I was introduced to New England life and manners, and decided that this would be my home.

"Tonight or Never" Will Be First at the Copley

For the opening of the Copley on next Saturday evening, the play will be "Tonight or Never," by Lili Hatvany. The company includes Lillian Gahagan, a sister of Helen Gahagan, who played the role of the prima donna in the original production.

Gayety Theater

At the Gayety today feature pictures will be Edward Robinson in "Smart Money" and "Hell Bent for Prison," with Vera Reynolds. There will also be five new vaudeville acts and the Gayety band. The policy at the Gayety Theater is two changes a week, Sundays and Thursdays.

"HOW ABOUT A SWIM?"

Barbara Weeks is one of the beauties who appear in "Palmy Days," Eddie Cantor's new film which comes to the Loew's State screen tomorrow.

SHE'S SOME DANCER

Patti Moore, who with her partner, Sammy Lewis, heads the dance revue which will be featured on the RKO Boston stage, starting next Saturday.

ELOPER FREED; WILL WED THE GIRL DEC. 19

Amesbury, Oct. 1—Romance had its day in court here today when Elmer Ring, 21, of Wakefield, was arraigned on a charge of abducting Marion C. Spencer, 17, of Salisbury Beach, with whom he eloped to Vermont.

The case ended with the charge dismissed, with Elmer kissing Marion and Marion's mother kissing them both and announcing they would be married December 19, which is Marion's birthday.

Cupid fired a whole batch of arrows as George Ross French, prosecuting attorney, told Judge Charles T. Pettinghill:

"The boy's conduct was honorable and the mother of the girl, who signed the complaint, has forgiven him and consented to the marriage."

Mrs. Eugene Spencer, with her arm around the youth whose hair she pulled last night when the officers returned the elopers from Bennington, Vt., said:

"God bless you, my son. I love you and will always be your mother. I forgive you because you have suffered for my girl. You have treated me wonderfully."

It was Marion's turn to say something:

"I love him and would have waited forever for him."

And Elmer, finding himself no abductor, said:

"I was willing to go to jail and would have married Marion after I got out. But everything is all right now."

And Marion and Elmer said together:

"We will have our honeymoon in Vermont."

BISHOPS SCORE PROFITEERS IN DEPRESSION

Denver, Col., Oct. 1 (AP)—The existing economic system has been criticized by bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church, who assert unemployment is but a symbol of underlying selfishness.

The expression was contained in the bishops' pastoral letter before the closing session of the triennial convention.

Relief of suffering caused by unemployment was set forth as a primary duty and the letter said the profit-seeking motive must give way to one of service.

Emphasizing that economic distress and political unrest are aggravated by present international relations, the letter recommends membership of the United States in the World Court and League of Nations and leadership in substantial reductions in armament.

BACK TO JUNGLE AND GLAD TO GO

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Manuel and Diosaner have weighed America and found her wanting.

The two African youths, brought here three months ago by Martin Johnson, the explorer, to care for three gorillas captured in the Belgian Congo, will sail home Saturday, and glad of it.

They found Harlem too strenuous. Ice cream and pies, which thrilled them when they arrived, finally gave them stomach aches. The best thing about America, in the opinion of Manuel and Diosaner, are some cut glass tumblers from the Five-and-Ten which they are taking back with them.

Accepting the offer of their sponsor to purchase gifts to take to their wives, the youths selected ermine coats. The selection was promptly vetoed.

Illness Caused by Dust Is Spreading

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Silicosis, an industrial illness due to breathing dust, was reported to the American Chemical Society today as more widespread than hitherto believed. The report was made by Dr. Harrison E. Howe, editor of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

Silicosis is caused by silica, a white chystalline substance composed of oxygen and silicon, the two most abundent elements in the earth's crust.

Officer, Beaten, Still in Danger

Officer Edward F. Harrington of the Jamaica Plain station, who was badly beaten up by three men Sept. 24, is still on the danger list at City Hospital today after a "fairly comfortable night." He is suffering from concussion of the brain suffered when he was attacked by occupants of a truck he had ordered to stop.

Law Students and Teacher Are Jailed

Miami, Fla., Oct. 1 (AP)—Twenty-one young men, identified as students at the University of Miami Law School, and a professor of the institution wound up a speakeasy celebration in jail. They were released after a few hours.

Jerome B. Cohn of New York, who says he is a member of the law school faculty, told police the students went to the speakeasy to pledge several members to the Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity.

Peggy Shannon Heads Cast for 'The Goose Hangs High' Film

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Los Angeles, Oct. 1—As a play, "The Goose Hangs High" was most entertaining. As a silent movie it was pretty bad. As a talkie it has possibilities. Paramount has just purchased the screen rights. The story is about sentimental parents who dedicate their lives to every want of their children. Peggy Shannon, the red-haired cyclone, will play the part of the girl.

Louella O. Parsons

And now I'm wondering about Buddy Rogers who is said to be signed to play opposite her. Buddy announced no more pictures. Personal appearances and the radio for him. Maybe this one will go into productions before December. At any rate, Frank Tuttle, who has grown a beard and looks unlike the Frank we used to know, will direct. Henry Myers is doing the screen play and, please, Paramount, may we have the stage dialogue in this particular picture? It was good.

Seen and Heard

Russell Gleason has the satisfaction of knowing that his parents approve of Mary Brian. All eyes in the theater were turned on Russell's dad, Jim Gleason, when he escorted Mary and Mrs. Webster, Lucille Gleason's mother, to front seats at the opening of "Camille." Russell was detained at the studio, but his dad was going to see that his girl friends made an entrance. Nice people the Gleasons—wholesome and fine. Just hope of getting in the movies has kept Marjorie Pierson in Hollywood. She is a talented actress who could get a place on the stage any time.

The 15,000-mile trip into South America partly by plane and partly by motor will be made alone by Douglas Fairbanks. He and Mary Pickford have talked it all over and Mary will remain in the good old United States. She is considering an offer to star in a play to be produced under most agreeable auspices. As yet her plans in this direction are still in the embryo stage. I promised her I would not mention stage producer or play but as soon as there is something definite it will be made public. As soon as Doug and his party hit the trail for South America Mary will go to New York to complete her plans for her stage appearance.

BIG 4 AGREE ON PLANS FOR MERGER

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Presidents of the eastern trunk line railroads today agreed to recommend to the Interstate Commerce Commission a plan for grouping the railroads in the eastern district into four systems.

This was interpreted as indicating that the roads were at last in agreement as to all important matters in the plan, and was regarded in Wall Street as a major step in bringing to fruition the long-projected plan of consolidating the eastern railroads.

CONTRACT ALL PREPARED

The four leading companies already have acquired virtual control, either directly or indirectly through sympathetic interests, of almost all of the properties needed to complete the mergers.

The presidents of the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate System, after many conferees of the four systems, have reached an agreement to be signed and forwarded to the Interstate Commerce Commission recommending a modification of the commission's plan for grouping the railroads in the eastern district into four systems.

HOW THEY WILL WORK

The general plan, as announced some months ago, called for the following disposition of the roads:

To the New York Central—The Lackawanna, and direct connection with the Virginia Railway at Deepwater, including joint rates and routes over that railway.

To the Pennsylvania—The Wabash, the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, and the Norfolk & Western.

To the Baltimore & Ohio—The Ann Arbor, the Reading & Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Western Maryland, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, Buffalo & Susquehanna, the Lehigh & Hudson River, and Chicago & Alton.

To the Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate—The Erie, the Bessemer & Lake Erie, Pere Marquette, the Wheeling & Lake Erie, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, and Lehigh Valley, but permitting certain trackage rights to the Pennsylvania over the Lehigh.

New Fish on Market; It's a Herring-Smelt

Boston wholesale fish dealers decided to market a new edible fish known as the herring-smelt, as a result of having a feast of them today at Fish Pier.

The wholesalers voted the fish among the tastiest they ever ate. The fishing grounds aboard with them but they have never been put on the market. Thirty of the fish, weighing from one pound to a pound and a half, were sent to the bureau of fisheries for further study.

DIVORCEE, PAL HUNTED IN SLAYING

The artist is Henry Wibbles, Jr., 20, of Santa Monica, Cal.; a Yale student last year.

Wibbles, reported to have been at Bear Hill Lake yesterday, was sought late today by the Westport authorities following a report that Raisbeck, before he met death, was seen in the company of a young man.

Raisbeck Wibbles and Mrs. Fairbanks formed an inseparable triumvirate at the Harvard summer resort, authorities were informed.

BRANDY BOTTLE FOUND

Mrs. Fairbanks, at her camp there, was hostess to a number of artists, and Raisbeck, in his log cabin on a trail off the main road, often reciprocated.

The log cabin was empty today, Mrs. Fairbanks' house was closed and Wibbles was nowhere to be seen.

Outside the log cabin, in a barrel, investigators found a number of empty brandy bottles.

Wibbles has not registered at Yale this year and, according to Oliver H. P. Garrett, the author, whose protege Raisbeck was, Wibbles and Raisbeck were to have taken an apartment together in Cambridge this fall.

CHECK FOUND ON BODY

Receipt for a $100 money order made out to Mrs. Fairbanks and a $10 check made out to Wibbles were on Raisbeck's body, found in underbrush in the Christ Church Cemetery at Westport, and remained unexplained.

Also unexplained was Raisbeck's presence in Westport where, until last June, he boarded with Garretts mother, who is now in Europe.

An inquest into Raisbeck's death will be held as a result of Medical Examiner William H. McMahon's decision to withhold his finding after tentatively announcing that Raisbeck was a victim of acute meningitis.

Bruises on the throat, bloodstains on the shirt and a trail of coins through the cemetery, indicating that the body was dragged from an automobile, caused him to reserve his decision.

A brother of Raisbeck is en route to Westport by air to aid police in the investigation. A cousin, George M. Green of Ashland, who said he did not believe Raisbeck died of natural causes, is already there.

Raisbeck's cabin at Harvard is on the extensive property of Pike Warren, now in Europe—about a half-mile from Warren's "gentleman's farm" there.

Warren's daughter, Mrs. Richard W. Lothrop of 21 Gurney st., Cambridge, who summered there, said she met Raisbeck socially and also knew Wibbles and thought the latter was still at Harvard.

Sought in Death

Mrs. Margaret Crocker Fairbanks, Cambridge, divorcee and friend of Kenneth Raisback, the author whose body was found in a Westport, Ct., Cemetery, is sought for questioning about a "cult" at Harvard, Mass.

Nashua, N. H., Oct. 1 (AP)—Chief H. Allen Rutherford of Brookline, Mass., was elected president of the New England Police Chiefs Association today.

Others elected were Harry W. Rowe, Auburn, Me., vice-president; Irving F. Goodwin, Nashua, secretary; M. J. Healey, Manchester, treasurer; George G. Abbott, Wellington, Conn., sergeant-at-arms; Thomas E. Harrop, West Warwick, R. I., William Remington, Norwalk, Conn., and James R. Travers, Milton, Mass., executive committee.

Cranberry Pickers Return at Old Pay

Halifax, Oct. 1 (AP)—The strike of 150 pickers in the cranberry bogs of the Ocean Spray Co. ended today, the company announced, with the return of the workers at the old wage scale.

The pickers walked out Monday when their demand for an increase in hourly wage from 50 to 75 cents was refused.

Hungry Man Scares Baker to Death

New York, Oct. 1 (INS)—Those most primitive human emotions, hunger and fear, still produce powerful impulses.

Henry McNair, laborer, was hungry and burst into a Brooklyn bakery early today for bread. A baker died from fear.

cept the new wage scale, which calls for a reduction of ten cents an hour in the overtime rate, and both sides agreed to a continuance temporarily of existing working conditions.

International President Ryan is expected here tomorrow, for the negotiations. The longshoremen's representatives were led at today's conference by John J. Doolin, the international vice-president.

Gov. Ely and Mayor Curley acted to prevent a disastrous cessation of the port's business with loss of millions of dollars to the steamship companies, shippers and wage-earners.

They stand ready to act again if necessary if the pending negotiations fail.

Arrival at Commonwealth Pier this morning of the Lady Drake of the Canadian National Line found union longshoremen ready to go to work because the strike at the pier, already under way for six days, has centered entirely around the Luckenbach Line ships.

A large part of the crowd of 500 strikers and sympathizers at the pier entrance was admitted for selection of an unloading crew.

VICTIM HIT ON HEAD

As they streamed on to the pier somebody among them hurled the bolt and it struck one of the strike-breakers who was working on the Luckenbach ships. He was struck on the head and fell, but quickly got up and ran.

Police closed on the crowd immediately and after many hand-to-hand tussles got the throng off the pier, but trouble threatened for a long time afterward.

ELY LATE AT FAIR

The conference at the State House lasted an hour and three-quarters before an agreement was reached, and the Governor, who was due at the Worcester Fair at 2 o'clock, did not get away until after 1:30.

Capt. George F. Mahoney of Athens st. police division, in which Commonwealth Pier is situated, was on hand to follow proceedings.

After the clash at the pier this morning, 17 union men were picked to work on the Lady Drake and the ship was ready to leave in two hours. Ten police were held in reserve at the Athens st. station in event of further trouble.

The Commonwealth pier strike has been over the alleged overloading of cargo slings, which the longshoremen claims endangers their lives.

3000 Dock Workers on Strike in Texas

Galveston, Tex., Oct. 1 (AP)—About 3000 longshoremen at Galveston, Houston, Texas City and Corpus Christi walked off their jobs early today in protest against a proposed wage reduction.

Steamship interests proposed to reduce the pay of longshoremen from 80 cents to 65 cents an hour. The pay for loading cotton would have been lowered from 18 cents a bale to a flat rate of 65 cents an hour.

RICH HUSBAND HELD IN RENO 'DESERTION'

Reno, Nev. Oct. 1—Giles P. Wetherill, Philadelphia, was arrested here on a charge of abandonment and released in the custody of his attorney yesterday. Wetherill filed a divorce suit Monday charging Kathlene Justine Jordan Wetherill with cruelty. They were married at Mamaroneck, N. Y., Oct 23, 1925. They have no children.

Wetherill is the son of Col. and Mrs. Samuel Price Wetherill, members of old and wealthy Philadelphia families. His wife before her marriage was Miss Justine Jordan of Worcester, Mass.

Mrs. Wetherill was quoted in newspapers today as saying that she was penniless and was obliged to depend on friends. She says she is being helped out by friends in her study of ballroom dancing in preparation for a stage career.

Aid to Crowley Is Given Route Duty

While no finding on his hearing before a trial board was announced, Patrolman Richard A. Southworth, aid to Supt. Michael H. Crowley at police headquarters, today was transferred back to the Fields Corner division for route duty in Dorchester Lower Mills.

Southworth faced the trial board as the result of his arrest 10 days ago at Walpole and Tremont sts., in an argument over a taxi fare. Roxbury Crossing police charged him with drunkenness but Southworth charged a "frameup."

Again... First in Safety!

The American Museum of Safety has awarded the Anthony N. Brady Gold Memorial Medal to the Boston Elevated Railway for the Conservation of Human Life and Health in 1930

FOR its safe operation in 1930, the Boston Elevated Railway wins the Anthony N. Brady Gold Memorial Medal and is judged the safest street railway in the United States and Canada. This is the third time that the Boston Elevated Railway has won this medal and has been recognized as the railway which has done most "to conserve the safety and health of the public and its employees."

The Boston Elevated Railway showed a reduction of 14 per cent. in surface collision accidents in 1930 compared with 1929, and a reduction of more than 43 per cent. in 1930 compared with the average for 1925 to 1927 inclusive.

Accidents to employees on the railway were reduced by eight per cent. in 1930, compared with 1929.

During 1930 not one of the 342,694,905 revenue passengers actually riding in the surface or rapid transit service of the railway met death from accident.

The good work continues: The Boston Elevated Railway has shown a further reduction in the number of surface collision accidents for the first nine months of 1931 compared with the same period in 1930, the year for which the railway is awarded the Brady Medal.

Safe and modern equipment, plus constant and intelligent effort of men and management, account for this truly remarkable record of achievement.

THIS IS LIFE

WORDS HOOVER NEVER UTTERS MIGHT SAVE RADIO IN PLIGHT

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN, I wonder, if important public officials, confronted with the request to write something in the nature of an official greeting for the inauguration of National Radio Week or National Apple Week, or something of the sort, were actually to say something? Such demands on our President and governors are so numerous that it is no wonder that they take refuge in smooth and polite banalities even on occasions when a real opportunity exists for forceful speech.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

Consider, for instance, President Hoover's letter to the president of the National Federation of Radio Associations. He points out that "within a decade radio has become a major factor in our system of communication. Its results have been as far-reaching as its rise has been dramatic. As a medium for universal dissemination for ideas, it is an important factor in the formation of sound public opinion and the promotion of good citizenship. It is in fact an art and utility of indispensable value in our national life."

Responsibility Is Mr. Hoover's

All of which is undoubtedly true and polite, but it is chiefly interesting for what it leaves unsaid. If ever an industry needs a few home-truths directed at its chiefs by somebody of national importance, it is the radio industry. Major executives bent on making semi-official statements, to be used for advertising purposes, ought to take a shot of "truth-serum" first. What would the result be like? In this case I can imagine the following:

"Gentlemen of the National Federation of Radio Associations:

"I take an unusual degree of interest in your great annual exhibition, because as Secretary of Commerce under the past administration I had the honor and responsibility of formulating the policies under which your industry has developed. If there exists a great deal of criticism as to the way in which broadcasting has developed in this country, I must admit that a considerable amount of the responsibility is mine.

"My business principles and economic traditions led me to believe that radio would best develop on the old principle of laissez faire and free competition. Not until competition for wave lengths had produced an anarachy, did I realize that Federal control was not merely advisable but necessary. By that time certain stations, regardless of the quality of their service, had acquired what are known legally as 'vested rights,' and to this day it is almost impossible to shut an incompetent or unnecessary station off the air.

And He Gave the Air Away

"Even when the government took hold of the situation, I was still so convinced that the future of radio lay entirely in commercial development that I helped to turn over all the air to commercial stations, reserving none for the government and none for non-commercial enterprises such as education and the arts. Under my secretaryship the Federal Radio Commission obtained only the control of the allotment of air channels, with little or no supervision of the activities of the stations.

"We can perhaps congratulate ourselves that there is no government censorship of what goes over the air, such as exists in most European countries. Such a situation as that in which the British government can refuse to allow Churchill to speak against Gandhi or Gandhi to speak on his own account does not exist here. In political campaigns every party and candidate has equal opportunity to use the air—provided he can pay the heavy advertising fees charged.

"On the other hand, there is no doubt a strong business censorship is exercised by the operators of the local stations and the great chains. Speakers supporting the government and the representatives of great industry are heard freely by the public. There seems to be little opportunity for the critics of government and business to speak, unless they have considerable financial backing. Most radio speakers are yes-men to the existing order. About a year ago an eminent speaker, attempting to criticize the radio industry was put off the air by an S. O. S. call—which was never traced. Government censorship is only one possible evil among many in that field.

"More serious, a government conference came to the conclusion last year that any attempt to use the radio for education, under the existing situation, would be possible only with something like a $10,000,000 endowment, most of which obviously would go to the commercial stations at advertising rates.

A Mere Pretense at Education

"The amount of time available for educational features properly sponsored has been steadily reduced, until now even an important state university extension service can obtain radio time only in 15-minute snippets in the 'dead' hours of the morning and afternoon, when radio advertising cannot be sold.

"The radio stations and chains do pretend that they are offering educational services, but on examination these turn out to be largely entertainment, directed at a definitely low level of intelligence. The only organizations seriously educational which fare at all well in the allotment of radio time are the religious organizations.

"Otherwise, most radio time is given up to entertainment of varying degrees of intelligence wrapped, like jelly around a pill, around advertising which is boringly repetitive, often trivial and not seldom vulgar. Much of this advertising is of a kind which is no longer allowed in reputable publications, particularly the small station advertising of dubious professions and doubtful commodities in various fields. Over this the Federal Radio Commission, my creation and that of the Congress, seems to have no legal control. Nor has it power to end the 'vested interest' of a station which is not properly serving the public.

"It must be seen that our traditional American policy of private enterprise in the matter of a public utility has once more shown itself capable of considerable abuse. It is my hope that the leaders of the radio industry will take effective steps to remedy these evils, from the origins of which I feel that I cannot completely dissociate myself."

I wonder what would happen if the President ever did say anything like that upon such an occasion?

STATE POLICE PROBE SCHOOL 'GRAFT'

TEACHER BARES SWINDLE IN NEW RACKET

Better Business Bureau Acts on the Story Told by Miss Fisher, Herself Accused

State police, at the request of the Boston Better Business Bureau, are investigtaing charges that Boston mannequin, art and finishing schools have been swindled out of thousands of dollars, the Boston Evening American learned today.

This entirely new phase of the so-called "model school" investigation, under way several days, was started as a result of revelations made to the bureau by Miss Maude W. Fisher, Back Bay mannequin school owner, charged in municipal court with larceny on complaint made by two of her former students.

CHARGES N. Y. MAN

The swindle, according to the Better Business Bureau, consists in obtaining money on the false promise of providing financial backing for the schools.

When Miss Fisher was questioned she told her predicament to a man who claimed to be from New York, and who, she said, purported to be a representative of a retired millionaire.

On his first visit the man stated his client was not interested in Miss Fisher's school she told the bureau. On a later occasion, however, he said the retired millionaire would be glad to invest $50,000 in the school, provided it was incorporated. He would not be interested in a personal enterprise.

According to the Better Business Bureau, Miss Fisher put the matter up to the girls in her school, who favored incorporation and expansion. She then saw a Boston lawyer relative to incorporation of the school, which was planned to go through shortly.

STUDENTS BACK TEACHER

The investigation by the State police corrects the erroneous impression that various schools themselves were being probed. In this connection it was learned that the New York man who approached Miss Fisher is being sought by Asst. Dist.-Atty. Daly of that city.

The Better Business Bureau learned that a prominent art school in the Back Bay had also been victimized to the extent of $1500, and that several New England inventors had fallen victim to the same swindle.

Miss Fisher declares, and some of her students support her in the declaration, that she is innocent of the theft of money as charged by Catherine Raftery of Brighton and Alice Waters of Somerville.

STUDENT MODELS SEEK COURT AID

ALICE WATERS, A MANNEQUIN STUDENT Boston police continued the investigation of alleged stock selling schemes in connection with one of Boston's leading mannequin schools, following the holding in $300 bail for court, of Miss Maud W. Fisher. On October 7 she will face charges of larceny from two students. The complainants include Miss Alice Waters, of Somerville, shown at the left. Miss Fisher, head of a school, declared the whole thing a frame-up. (Staff photos.)

$700 FOR PIANO 30 YEARS OLD STIRS GOODWIN

Fin. Com. Head Raps School Officials for Purchase of Instrument

Music may have charms to soothe the savage breast, but the alleged purchase by school authorities of an ancient concert piano has aroused the ire of Chairman Frank A. Goodwin of the Finance Commission.

In a letter to Chairman Joseph A. Hurley of the Boston school committee, Goodwin today asked an investigation of the acquisition of the instrument for the Dorchester Central High School for Girls, where he said there was already one piano.

Chairman Goodwin, in his letter, said he understood Elizabeth Pearce of Melville ave., Dorchester, had written Alexander Sullivan, business agent of the Boston school committee, on September 1 last, asking that her piano be bought at a discount.

He said that at the request of Sullivan the piano was inspected by Joseph A. Ecker, assistant director of music in the public schools.

Notwithstanding that Ecker reported the instrument to be 30 years old, out of tune, and with the felts needing replacement, according to Goodwin, the school committee purchased it for $700.

Chairman Goodwin said he understood the piano was repaired, and that payment was supposed to have been made in the last few days.

OFFICER LOSES FIGHT FOR JOB

Petition of George A. Hodgdon, former senior correction officer at Concord Reformatory, for reinstatement was denied by Judge Edward P. Pierce in Supreme court today.

Hodgdon asserts his post was classified as a civil service office, and that he was dismissed unlawfully. He is permitted to appeal to the full bench.

SKULL BROKEN IN FALL

Albert Himanen, 35, of Webster st., East Boston, suffered injuries, that may prove fatal, when he fell three stories from a neighbor's house he was painting today.

He was taken to East Boston Relief station and later to City hospital where doctors found he was suffering from a compound fracture of the skull.

Carl F. Carlson of Quincy Dies at 75

Carl F. Carlson, 75, father of Prof. Holding Carlson of Boston University, died today at his home, 42 Saville ave., Quincy. Carlson was 50 years in the steamship and tourist agency business in Quincy and recently celebrated his 75th birthday.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at Salem Lutheran Church, of which he was the last surviving founder, Another son, Carl G. Carlson, also survives. He was connected with his father's business.

City Saves $78,961 in Interest Charges

City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan yesterday informed Mayor Curley that the city will save $78,961 in interest charges this year by the payment of $2,000,000 today for temporary loans which were raised by the city earlier in the year.

Boston borrowed $24,000,000 this year in temporary loans in anticipation of taxes, and all of this will be paid back by Oct. 7. The interest costs this year amounted to $108,531.56, as against $185,492.74 in 1930.

Man Appeals False Fire Alarm Term

Frank B. Hargrove, 30, of White st., Belmont, was sentenced to one month in the house of correction in the Waltham court by Judge Connolly on a charge of sounding a false alarm of fire in Watertown. He appealed.

CLUBMAN DEAD IN HIS AUTO

Slumped across the steering wheel of his expensive sedan, the body of George Stevens, 54, Quincy trucking contractor, was found today in a parking area at Stony Brae Golf Club, Furnace Brook Parkway, Quincy.

Stevens, who lived with his wife and two children at 76 Edgemere rd., Quincy, was a member of the club.

Medical Examiner Fred E. Jones said superficial examination showed no injuries, but he reserved decision on the cause of death pending a talk with Mrs. Stevens.

Stevens' body was found by Carl Bloomquist, a club caretaker, who wondered at the early hour the car was parked there.

Police said Stevens gave up his trucking business several months ago and had not engaged in business since. He was dead since the early morning hours, Dr. Jones said.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kindergarten sportswear and the home also advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

Little Lamb Is Lost in Square; Cops Can Find No Mary There

In Malden square, a little lamb
Kept wandering to and fro—
And everywhere the children went
The lamb was sure to go.
The children didn't know the lamb—
There was no Mary there—
So Policeman Steven Jordan took
The lamb from off the square.
And to the station-house there came
The owner—not a lass,
But a merchant whose job was selling "gas."

Patrolman Jordan rubbed his eyes this morning when he saw a baby lamb tripping gaily along Perry st., close on the heels of a group of children bound for the Chavenu high school. None of the children claimed ownership, so off went the lamb to the station house.

One hour later, Eli Kaszock walked in and told the sergeant that the lamb had escaped from his filling station on Eastern ave.

Ferdinand Thrashes Officer in Cafe

What Has Gone Before

ERNST tells the story of a group of war comrades after peace is made. Arriving at their home city, Ernst and Lieutenant Ludwig Breyer are attacked by revolutionaries and rescued by the giant Willy Homeyer. At Willy's house the returned soldier is in disgrace for killing a neighbor's rooster. The friends meet again and learn that a former officer, against whom they have a long-standing grudge, is proprietor of a nearby cafe. They visit the cafe and find the former officer, Kosole's temper cools at seeing Seelig, the officer, a citizen again and the soldiers, after having a few drinks, start to go home.

Now Go on With the Story

Kosole is already almost outside when, glancing back along the floor, his eyes light on Seelig's legs, still clad in the same ill-omened leggings as of old. His trousers, too, have the same close-fitting military cut, with piping down the seams. From the waist up he is innkeeper, but from the waist down—sergeant-major. That settles it.

"Now, what about it? he snarls "Schroder! Schroder! Schroder! Do you remember him now, you dog, damn you? Take that one, from Schroder." His left goes home. "Greetings from the common grave!"

He hits again. The innkeeper dodges, jumps behind the counter and grabs a hammer. It catches Kosole across the face and glances off his shoulder. But Kosole does not even wince, he is so enraged. He grasps hold of Seelig and bashes his head down on the counter—there is a clatter of glass. He turns on the beer taps.

NO INTERFERENCE

The beer pours down Selig's neck, it streams through his shirt into his breeches, making them swell out on his legs like balloons. Seelig bellows with rage. It is no easy thing to get such beer in these days. At last he manages to free himself and seize a glass, with which he drives upwards against Kosole's chin.

"Fool!" cries Willy, from where he stands in the doorway, watching. "He should have let him in his stomach, and then pulled his legs from under him!"

None of us interferes. This is Kosole's show. Even if he were to get a hiding, it would not be our business to help him. We stand up merely to see that no one tries to help Seelig. But Ojeden has already explained the matter in half a dozen words and nobody is now disposed to take his part.

Ferdinand's face is bleeding fast; he now gets properly mad and quickly makes short work of Seelig. With a hook to the jaw he brings him down, he stands over him and bashes his head on the floor a few times till he feels he has had enough.

Then we go. Lina, looking as pale as a cheese, is standing over her grazing master.

"You'd better cart him away to the hospital," Willy shouts back. "Looks to me like a matter for two or three weeks. Not a very bad case, though."

HAPPY AS CHILD

Kosole is smiling, as happy as a child. Schroder, so he feels, is avenged.

"That was fine," says he, wiping the blood from his face. "Well, now I must be trotting back to my mamma or the neighbors will be thinking things, eh!"

At the marketplace we separate. Jupp and Valentin go off to the barracks and their boots clatter over the cobble pavement.

"I wouldn't mind going along with them," says Albert suddenly.

"I know," agrees Willy, thinking of his fowl, no doubt. "They're a bit pedantic, the people here, don't you find?"

I nod. "And we'll have to be

'GREEK GOD' OF STAGE FAVORS HEART STUDY

Character Weaknesses in Men Should Be Sought and Studied Before Marriage

Lou Tellegen former husband of Geraldine Farrar and once known as the "perfect lover" of the theater has written "Advice to Women on Winning a Man" in a series for the Boston Evening American. The one-time star of New York, London and Paris stage productions, who is now here for an appearance with the Somerville Stock Company, discusses love in general in his first article today.)

[illegible] I have [illegible] message for women who hope for happiness [illegible] success with men, and I want to tell it to them.

There are three [illegible] rules for women to follow in [illegible] an effective [illegible] with selecting [illegible]

SHOULD PLAN ROMANCE

Contrary to all beliefs [illegible] is most [illegible] I want to say that [illegible] and most [illegible] intelligent, and [illegible] need.

[illegible] beneath a handsome [illegible] manners a woman [illegible] whether her pro- spective lover is a thorough man. No woman should waste a moment with any man who is effeminate.

AVOID WEAKNESSES

Some men have a quality that makes women want to mother them and cuddle them like babies. That is a dangerous appeal for a man to have for a woman. I believe that it reveals a very decided [illegible] weakness in men.

The mother instinct in women [illegible] in her feeling toward her children not through love for her husband.

When her lover holds her in his arms a woman should feel that he is strong not that she is comfort- ing a weak child.

It is reported he received $2 a word, for his article, which would give him $5,618. This is one of the highest prices ever paid.

As Dunbar altered his plea of guilty was [illegible] pending a hearing for [illegible] first wife, Mrs. Mary E. Dunbar, and the former Miss Bernice Turner, 19 whom [illegible] here under the [illegible] tions against [illegible]

BOTH WIVES THERE

Dunbar's [illegible] Mrs. Dunbar [illegible] of his first wife there when he [illegible] been living upon the Mr. Dunbar was [illegible] a small child, making her home with her husband's mother in Washington st, Bedford.

It is charged that on August 4 the fourth ult., records of the marriage [illegible] took Miss Turner as a bride while [illegible] having obtained a divorce. According [illegible] the bride [illegible] and [illegible] a home for [illegible] wife at the Main st house.

When Dunbar appeared before Judge McHugh [illegible] Mrs. Dunbar, who [illegible] attended, was seated with [illegible] mother at the courtroom. The [illegible] entered [illegible] and [illegible] seat on the other side of the room.

SYMPATHY FOR GIRL

Dunbar pleaded guilty [illegible] the court inquired [illegible] presence of the offense charged. [illegible] pea to not guilty. He was held in $3000.

As he left the courtroom the [illegible] Lee women approached one another. The first Mrs. Dunbar [illegible] the other partner in the [illegible] [illegible] her for a moment then said:

"I'm sorry for you, and [illegible] and burst into tea

A truly great and good man has died, and on his passing I mourn the loss of my best friend. From a boy, and intimate association, I knew Hon. Mayor Quinn as well as any one or indeed as any other human being.

His outstanding character traits were kindliness and friendliness and all his contribution to public service was noteworthy. He will be remembered by those who knew him best as a loyal friend, gentleman. Our Country and People Grand, But Our Food!

BORIS PILNYAC the Russian, is saying things about us.

He came out of Russia to see Hollywood . . . some advice. But Hollywood didn't . . . at any . . . san advice, so Boris Pilnyac has gone . . . home again.

Before he . . . sailed he told the world . . . who's lot of . . . nse about Hollywood . . . writers and . . . Americans . . .

He said our . . . were . . . and . . . ten . . . real . . . sea of ambition and . . . we didn't know how to . . . a . . .

He said we didn't know . . . good cooking was, and . . . him talk about American . . . I would think we were a . . . people who live upon . . . and . . . and the queer . . . we . . . they make Easter candies . . .

Now, now, Mr. Pilnyac, why . . . don't know about . . . cooking anyhow?

You lived at smart American homes, and they rarely serve one single American dish cooked by an American if they can help it.

Even a Spanish, Italian, German, Russian or Jewish cook will begin at once to make a mess of your meals if you ask a smart American mistress. But just try to get a home-made strawberry shortcake, or a plate of hot biscuits that will melt in your mouth . . . you might just as well try to get a ticket to and the world . . . a thunder cloud.

Why didn't you get acquainted with some of the . . . real . . . out there in Hollywood . . . and . . . down to your . . . luncheon and hint around . . .

asked you out to the bungalow for a real American Sunday dinner?

No. I don't mean a Sunday night supper with a few cold meats and Spanish frijoles, and Italian ravioli and German noodles served sometime between seven and ten o'clock with pickles and cheese and a great attempt at Russian lack of pomp and ceremony. But a real, sure-enough honest to goodness Sunday dinner between four and seven o'clock. Fried chicken, hot biscuit, mashed potatoes, corn fritters—real ones made with corn shaved from the cob with a sharp knife and beaten up with eggs and cream, and fried in butter—a delicate brown and green peas that taste like green peas and not like some queer little bullets made in some outrageous factory or other . . .

And for dessert a green apple pie with its huge of thick cream on top . . . ice cream, mind you . . . Neapolitan ice cream, with yellow and . . . and . . . pink . . . Or maybe you'd rather have an old-fashioned strawberry shortcake . . .

HAMBURG CORN LOAF

1 can sweet corn
1 lb. hamburg
1 egg, well beaten
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 medium-sized onion, chopped fine
2 tbsps. melted butter

Mix ingredients well. Add enough cracker crumbs to make a solid pack. Put into greased loaf pan and bake in a hot oven. Mrs. Ann Campbell, 875 E Fourth st., So. Boston.

PEANUT BUTTER ICING

3 tbsps. hot strong coffee
1 tbsp. peanut butter
½ tsp. vanilla
2 cups confectioner's sugar

Pour coffee over butter, add vanilla and sugar; beat until creamy. This amount is enough to ice a loaf cake. For enough to fill and ice two layers use half as much again of all ingredients. —Mrs. Katherine McGovern, 11 North st., Haverhill.

"Only when it's necessary," she answered. "But all show people do it. Nobody thinks anything of it. Tom Delaney and I are just dancing partners . . . that's all!"

"Well, I think something of it," said Clifton. "I don't like it. As a matter of fact, I don't like show people."

The discussion ended but . . . left . . . Margaret . . . one thing. It . . . her to . . . Tom Delaney from a different . . . angle, as a man and not just as a dancing partner. It caused her to wonder what he really thought of her and whether it . . . thrilled him to hold her in his arms. And more than . . .

. . . I wonder what she . . . I see that old snake in the grass is still hanging around," he said. There was no levity in his tone.

Margaret flashed back. "I suppose you mean Jack Clifton?" she said.

Nobody else," answered Tom. "I've heard plenty about that guy. I made it my business to hear it when he began buzzing around you. Take my advice and lay off of him. He's been married twice already and he doesn't marry unless he has to. He's poison for girls like you . . .

"Please mind your own business!" Margaret's anger was mounting. "If I want to marry him I'll marry him and you won't stop me. What right have you to interfere? I can take care of myself!"

. . . was as angry as she was. . . . realizing what he was doing he . . . and hands . . . her . . . and . . . her . . .

"Listen to me," he said. "When I teamed up with you you were a decent kid and you still are. But what do you know about tramps like this fellow Clifton. Just because he has a wad of money and knows how to spend it you think he's on the up and up. Well, just ask anybody in the show business what happens to girls like you when wise guys like Clifton begin chasing them. Some of them end up in the river."

Margaret shook off his hands.

SHE DARES HIM

"Leave me alone," she said. "I'll do what I please. He hasn't asked me to marry him yet but if he does I will, just to show you."

. . . I am scared per . . .

"Be heaven, you won't," he said. "Before I'd let you throw your life away like that I'd marry you myself."

In the heat of anger Tom had . . . thinking and for . . . moment . . . shocked each other . . . Margaret . . . was . . .

How to make Children

EAT

DON'T force children to eat! The girl or boy who has no appetite has stasis—which means the child is sluggish. But cathartics have caused more constipation than they ever cured! The "California treatment" is best—just pure fig syrup. Try this for just a few days and then see how eagerly your youngster will eat!

How to Conquer Sluggishness

Stimulate the colon and that child with a finicky appetite will devour everything set before him. Here's the simple treatment that does more for babies or older children than all the diets, fad foods, or tonics.

Nature has provided the only "medicine" you'll need to stir a child's colon muscles into proper action. California fig syrup. Pure, delicious, harmless. It acts on the lower colon . . . where the trouble is. It has no effect whatever on the twenty feet of intestines which should not be disturbed.

Begin tonight, with the wonderful "California treatment." Any druggist has California fig syrup, all bottled, with directions. Use enough the first time to cleanse the clogged colon of every bit of poison and hard waste. Then just a little twice a week until the child's appetite, color, weight and spirits tell you the stasis is gone. It may take a month if a child is all run down, but isn't it worth it, to have constipation conquered? And whenever a cold or other upset clogs the system again, use this natural vegetable laxative instead of drastic drugs.

WARNING

The fact that California fig syrup is bought to benefit little children does not discourage some storekeepers from offering an imitation. Be sure the bottle says CALIFORNIA Fig Syrup, and you'll get the pure, unadulterated article.

The "A's" Slowed Down. It May Prove Costly. Cards May Get Jump. ↕ Louis Vs. Andy—Off! That Hanover Injun. Squawking Managers.

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN IN BASEBALL

In their last 18 innings, the "A's" scored one lone run—
Of course the Mighty Mackmen might just be having fun
And saving up their markers to use against the Cards
But its mighty risky baseball, I want to tell you pards
To let down in your playing just before the firing starts
Should jump go to the Cardinals 'twill not surprise, Sweethearts
Connie yet may rue the day he let his warriors lag
For in a short world series the jump off wins The Bag.

The Athletics should win the world series, BUT . . . In their last 18 innings of play ... against the Yankees [illegible] the lowly Phillies, the Mackmen scored only one run on 10 hits . . . [illegible] under double wraps [illegible] ing . . . But that is the worst thing they could have done before a short series . . . The mighty A's may have [illegible] . . . The Cards may get the jump on them . . . Getting the jump in a short series [illegible] wins the series . . . A team often can be swept off its feet before it gets a chance to steady down. . . . Remember the Athletics-Braves series of 1914?

On again, off again, gone again, Finnegan! The Brouillard-Callahan match, one of the fistic naturals of the season again gone blooey! . . . This time it was Andy's turn to get a cut lip. . The last time it was Lou's . . . They should make 'em wear catcher's masks . . . But you can't blame Billy Ames for not laffing. Atop of the two Brouillard Callahan postponments Ernie Schaaf had to go and get septic poisoning and away went the Dorval match . . . No wonder [illegible] . . . Of course you will [illegible] words from an hot [illegible] . . . But it's [illegible] you are going to get [illegible] as well. . . . Gene knows a lot of inside stuff [illegible] ready to spill it. . . . In spilling it, how ever, he will be [illegible] careful to keep his own skirts clean.

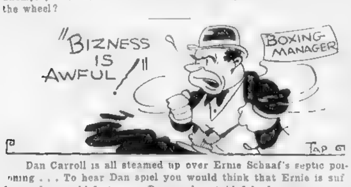
Many of the players who have appeared with and against him have a hunch that Dib Williams, who packs the largest chaw in the big leagues in his cheeks, may be the sensation of the present series . . . Kid Gleason, Eddie Collins and Earl Mack all are loud in praise of Williams . . . Eddie Collins says Williams is the best shortstop in the majors . . . Speaking of Kid Gleason get Joe Cashman to tell you of the meetings the White Sox used to hold when the Kid was manager . . . It looks as if "Pep" Martin would uphold flaming youth in the coming series . . . He's another kid who ball players themselves say is all wool and a yard wide.

That little Injun in full war paint, feathered headdress and beaded jacket who you see marching ahead of the Dartmouth band at football games is a real honest-to-goodness Injun . . . He is a full blooded Onondaga . . . His name is Sundown and he is a senior at Hanover . . . Every expert who has looked over Dartmouth this season is raving over Sam Fishman, who we tipped you off about early in the season . . . In the Norwich game Fishman gained more ground than the great Morton . . . And how he barked the signals and drove the team . . . You all know Sammy . . . He hails from Malden.

After the world series Babe Ruth will head for Hollywood . . . They've ribbed up another baseball picture for him . . . Speaking of Dartmouth a parsang astern did you ever hear that old Dartmouth drinking song. The Maine Stein Song may have the music, but the Dartmouth chanson has the words . . . It is about Eleazar Wheelock, founder of Hanover. Eleazar was a very pious man. He used to prepare for a pioneering mission by packing:

'A gradus cum Parnassus, a Bible and a drum
And 500 gallons of old New England rum"

Bedad, there was a b'y after Fish Sullivan's own heart! . . . The N. Y. State Athletic Commission's refusal to permit Benny Leonard to box in Madison Sq. Garden until he proves his worth in smaller clubs gives Boston matchmakers a chance to use the former world's lightweight champion . . . Jobless married men with a family will be permitted to watch Pennsylvania M. A.'s games free . . . The little colleges are doing their best for the unemployed . . . Isn't it time the big ones put their shoulders to the wheel?



Dan Carroll is all steamed up over Ernie Schaaf's septic poisoning . . . To hear Dan spiel you would think that Ernie is suffering from cold feet . . . Dan paid a stableful of sparring partners to condition Jack Dorval for the Schaaf match and now figures the dough is wasted . . . Hard luck walloped Danyell where it hurt the most . . . If promoters could make one match without putting all of the stable in the same show it would help out considerably . . . Managers and boxers are putting up such a howl about monopolizing the game that the squawk may be heard in the State House . . . The managers themselves mostly are to blame for the depression in boxing . . . If you want to know whether there is a depression, or not, see how much money Eddie Mack has made the last year and find why the Boston Garden with a great arena and plenty of financial backing only staged eight boxing shows this year . . . That's not one a month.

"Th' Game is goin' to th' dogs," is the manager's plaintive wail
"This boxing bizness's turribul I'm losing all my kale!"
Who but themselves are they to blame, if cup is filled with dregs
'Tis them who kill the blooming goose that lays the golden eggs.

PUTTING THE STRIPES BACK ON THE GRIDIRON

O'CONNOR, quarterback of South Boston high, making a desperate thrust through the Dorchester line in the closing period of the game with Dorchester at Fens Stadium yesterday, but was unable to get by the Dorchester secondary. SNOW, Dorchester right halfback, brought O'Connor down just after he crossed the line of scrimmage. Dorchester won, 6 to 0.

It's a G. A. R. Convention

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The most important thing about this series is that Connie Mack and Gabby Street are both old exhaust [illegible] her.

Connie started when catchers grabbed them on the first bounce, and he now fires his outfielders for doing the same thing.

[illegible] Connie the edge [illegible] this series.

Otherwise, the teams are even except for the players.

Connie broke his leg in Pittsburgh in 1896 while sliding through the pitcher's box when he was running from first to third. In those days you didn't have to touch second if the umpire turned his head [illegible]

But now they have four umpires, and the [illegible] restriction [illegible] much closer.

Gabby used to catch for Walter Johnson when the fastest things in the league were Walter's hopper and a pop bottle.

He quit when he caught both of them at the same time.

Gabby has only been in baseball for 30 years, man and junior. Connie has never been ruled off the field for fighting and his record includes the Civil War.

So you can see it's just a couple of old folks giving the neighbors children a party.

Just to keep in the spirit of the thing we're going to cover the series with a beard.

We rooted for Connie was back in Philadelphia in 1901 when Ban Johnson started the league and if a pitcher was knocked out of the box they put in a lawyer.

We picked the Athletics [illegible] four straight and if it wasn't for the schedule they might do it [illegible] at a time.

If we guess wrong then Damon Runyon has got another playmate.

Brown to Battle Zelinsky Tonight

Bobby Brown of Lowell and Joe Zelinsky of Winthrop will face each other for the third time when they clash in the ten-round feature bout at the new Arena in Brockton tonight. Joe scored a knockout over Bobby, but Brown came back and defeated Zelinsky at Salem, two months ago.

Matchmaker Jack Murphy has signed George Ostrof of Revere to meet Alex Veradi of Taunton, Lenny Gershman of Dorchester to face Joe Wright of Salem, Pat McSorley of Watertown to oppose Charley Hixon of Milford and Joe Grennan of Lowell to open the show with Kid Edwards, in the six rounders.

Test for Morelli in Arena Mat Fray

Al Morelli, Boston College's star will meet what is considered his acid test at the Arena next Thursday night when he faces Elmer Saunders.

The youthful Italian has bowled over every grappler that has faced him in the 80 contests he has engaged since he turned professional, and Promoter Paul Bowser who will open his season at the Arena on October 8 is determined that Morelli has passed the experimental stage and is ready for the top notchers.

With this in mind the veteran impresario will import Saunders, a tough hombre who boasts a record nearly equal to that of young Morelli.

Hominy Indians Drill on Common

The Hominy Indian football team that meets the combined Dilboy-Fitton A. C. eleven Sunday afternoon at Dilboy Field, Somerville, attracted a gathering of about 2000 fans as they practiced yesterday afternoon on Boston Common.

The crowd marveled at the kicking, passing and running of Fait Elkins, former All-American, and Levi, 200-pound halfback, who is well known around these parts on account of his having played against Boston College.

CRUSADERS TO TEST FOE AT HANOVER

By BILL GRIMES

[illegible] football rest [illegible] this week.

[illegible] Temple sent a strong club to Hanover, but Jesse Hawley was fortunate enough to be able to "steam up" his charges and Temple was buried. After severing relations with Temple, Dartmouth returned to its old plan and again the development of the teams was retarded.

Cannell, Harvard, Gave H. C. Green Tilt

[illegible] Coach Jack Crowley made [illegible] Cannell, Harvard fullback, [illegible] Dartmouth, and [illegible] O'Donnell in [illegible] Crimson for Brown [illegible] Harvard [illegible] Dartmouth [illegible]

If Dartmouth's idea in booking Holy Cross was for the purpose of offering a tough game to the Indians before Yale and Harvard, there is no question but that their hopes will be realized one week from Saturday.

Although Coach John J. McEwan has not declared himself in so many words, it is well known that he harbors the idea that his charges will give the Green a real battle and it all comes deep in his heart he thinks that he has an even chance of beating Dartmouth. He has a number of [illegible] Coach McEwan has [illegible] ready for [illegible] players on the Holy Cross squad last season who, being just up from the freshman class, were not ready for the varsity. They are now varsity material and with them McEwen has enough stars from his last year's freshman team to more than offset the loss he and Holy Cross incurred by graduation.

H. C. Captain Rates With Best in Country

Moreover, Holy Cross has one of the best passing and running backs in the country in Capt. Phil O'Connell. Also, O'Connell is a fine field general, playing his third year of varsity football. In Capt. O'Connell, Dartmouth will be tested to a fare-thee-well and if they succeed in stopping him, they have little fear of Abe Lavin and the best all around [illegible] Holy Cross has produced.

Despite [illegible] Coach Jack Crowley [illegible] Dartmouth [illegible] Holy Cross will not take kindly to being cut from the Dartmouth schedule. In fact, it was due to Dartmouth's action in dropping them that Holy Cross took the Patriots Day baseball date from the Green.

Realizing that Coach McEwan will field a powerful team on Memorial Field, Dartmouth [illegible] for Holy Cross but [illegible] information on Mt. St. James. They have placed a wet blanket on any reference to their drive for Holy Cross.

Dartmouth has fine prospects for this season, despite the fact that the Class of 1931 took considerable talent. The Green received fine replacements from the last year's freshman class, which not only produced an undefeated team but delivered it intact to Coach Cannell this fall, thereby establishing an all time record for Dartmouth.

Undoubtedly the largest crowd that has ever been on an opening season game will attend the Dartmouth-Holy Cross battle. Already the ticket supply is [illegible] interested those who do not enjoy this week will be deprived of witnessing a real battle, which will make the victors and break the losers.

Baker and Kelly to Fight at Arena

It is now likely that if Jack Dempsey comes to New York, the commission will fire at him. "Whom did you ever lick?"

Jim Conservation might even think that Gene Tunney is just another writer

But didn't the commission allow Carnera to box someone by the name of Pat Redmond not so long ago? It took a dozen secret agents to find out who or what Redmond was.

And it took Carnera just a few punches to prove that it would have been just as well if Redmond never existed

The ways of a boxing commission are often more strange than the ways of a woman.

Campolo won a bout. He won it in 19 seconds. Yea . . . CAMPOLO won. He will probably now be hailed as the foremost heavyweight contender by the New York Commission

Albie Booth, dynamite cap of the Yale backfield, is supposed to be in such bad shape that doctors have to freeze his appendix before every practice session. He made two runs in a recent scrimmage, one for 40 and another for 80 yards. Coaches of Yale's rivals this fall are wondering if putting [illegible] help them beat the Blue

A change in the system of hockey playoffs is proposed. It's about time some plan were adopted whereby fans could know who the champions are before the baseball season opens

Harvard to Use Many Subs Saturday

Harvard [illegible] In this case, Coach Casey will attempt to use all his varsity squad, which roughly consists of four elevens. At least three separate backfield quartets will see action.

"Danny" Wells will be a conspicuous figure in the backfield, since Capt. Barry Wood has [illegible]

Wells is said to be the most brilliant individual field general in the Harvard fold and while [illegible] short on experience, he has driven the Harvard "B" team in masterly fashion throughout the training season.

Wells passes and [illegible] his ability to do either [illegible] a valuable understudy for the Crimson captain.

Casey's primary concern for the opening game is to [illegible] strength of his reserve material, much of which represents an unknown quantity.

The Casey-taught version of the old Haughton system of hidden ball stuff will not be in evidence until [illegible] games when Harvard's major opponents [illegible] around.

A Cheerful Announcement Creates Surprise in Blue Wall Street

By B. C. Forbes

B. C. Forbes

Foreign Exchanges

Demand [illegible] francs 3.94 cents, lire 5.15 cents.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

FOREIGN selling is blamed for most of the market's recent weakness. Its volume is problematical. As soon as this sort of selling has been absorbed, many observers look [illegible] under leadership [illegible] which showed again [illegible] their disposition to advance on any relaxation of pressure.

—SPECTATOR— Says:

Perhaps with the arrival of a new month, investors and traders with bullish inclinations will be able to wipe away the bitter memories of the market decline during September.

Record of Month

It may not be generally realized, [illegible] of 24 trading days in the past month, there were but five sessions in which the general stock list was able to record a gain. The record in the bond market is even worse, for there were only two days of rising quotations in [illegible]

However, the very [illegible] of [illegible] points to [illegible] in the not distant future. With stocks down [illegible] which [illegible] not only the worst in earnings, but probably everything in the way of change in dividends, even to complete omission, it is hard to visualize the market [illegible]

Rails

[illegible] stocks, the ability of the rails to hold above their former lows is the most favorable technical aspect of the situation.

While industrial stocks, as measured by the generally accepted market averages, are not back to approximately the levels [illegible] in 1924, there are still a number of stocks today, all [illegible] for splits ups and stock dividends, which are still well above their levels of seven years back.

Decline on Curb Is Flattened Out

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—The curb market's decline flattened out considerably as the year's fourth quarter began today. Losses on the earlier selling waves held within relatively narrow bounds. Several favorites made new lows among them Electric Bond & Share, American Gas, United Light "A" and Commonwealth Edison.

Buick Production to Resume Oct. 5

New York, Oct. 1—Buick Motor Co plans to resume production Oct 5 after a shutdown during September for inventory. Operations will be on a five-day week basis, affording employment to a large force.

—STATE ST.— Hears:

That traders who intend to make a play for the technical turn, said to be near at hand, will stick to the rails. Disregarding the firmness of recent sessions, they reason that the month of October should bring good news to the group. At the same time they point out that in past bear markets the rails have made their lows as much as two months ahead of the industrials.

Preferred Vs. Bonds

Many statistical, as well as brokerage, organizations are suggesting the purchase of cheap or low priced preferred shares of various carriers. With fixed obligations of carriers selling for as little as 20 cents on the dollar it is hard to see the junior equities at present. More than one experienced financial man is of the opinion more attention will be devoted to fixed interest securities before conditions are much altered.

Liquidation of North American is attributed to foreign accounts. This company has been one of the most popular utilities across the Atlantic. At times it is traded on on the three principal continental exchanges, London, Paris and Amsterdam.

United Fruit

Currently selling at levels indicative of a lower dividend rate the retention of United Fruit is none the less deemed advisable. Unseasonable weather and lower fruit prices have cut into third quarter earning while the sugar business has not progressed as expected. Company earned $2.29 in the first half and may achieve half of this in final period. Last balance sheet showed $9 per share in cash.

The incoming Congress is said to be antagonistic toward Wall St. One bit of legislation expected will deal with security affiliates of banks. However, some bankers are tired of their security business and may dispose of them anyway.

Boardroom Briefs

The few people interested in purchasing stocks are seeking the companies with small capitalizations that appear to be well deflated . . . Everyone is shy of the concerns with a large number of shares outstanding . . . One of the favorite small capital companies is Vulcan Detinning . . . A group in a position to stage a fair comeback is the oils of which little is heard . . . A bullish development many think underestimated is the recent French-German get together . . .

PRICES MIXED AT THE CLOSE IN WALL ST.

New York, Oct. 1—Share prices fluctuated feverishly today between cross currents of buying and liquidation, ending the session on a rally which cancelled much of a sharp afternoon decline.

The close was irregular, with some of the leading issues showing small gains. The session was one of the most active of recent months, the turnover exceeding 3,500,000 shares.

SOME RECOVERIES

Several issues lost 1 to 7 points during the afternoon, but there were numerous recoveries of 1 to 3 from the bottom in the final dealings. Suspension of a well-known Boston and New York investment firm presumably brought out considerable selling.

The railroad issues pushed up 1 to 3 points temporarily, reflecting the agreement on the Eastern trunkline consolidation plan, but most of this was lost as the session wore on.

U. S. Steel closed about unchanged, after selling off 1⅛ to a new low, and American Telephone was off only a point, after dropping 4 temporarily.

American Can, New York Central and Westinghouse Electric closed with small gains, while Eastman finished 2 higher, and Coca Cola 3. Santa Fe Railroad closed with a small loss, after a morning rise of 3. North American, Sears and Electric Autolite lost about 2 points.

The bond market was irregular, but was firmer in spots, and the London and Paris markets closed with a steady tone.

Wall Street recognized that final agreement among the heads of the four eastern trunkline systems—the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, and Chesapeake & Ohio—Nickel Plate group—was only a step toward actually bringing the proposed absorption to completion, but perhaps the most important step.

The plan must now receive the stamp of approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and minority interests in the various roads involved must be satisfied.

REDUCTION IS MILDER

Reduction of Columbia Gas & Electric's annual basis to $1.50 from $2 was milder than some brokerage gossip had indicated. Furthermore, the overnight announcement of the ordering of a $1 quarterly payment on Baltimore & Ohio, against $1.25 previously, was more generous than some had looked for.

Bank of France's weekly statement, showing a reduction of roughly $900,000,000 in sight balances abroad, reflected the drawing home of funds, or converting them into gold, and gave a clue to the recent takings of metal in New York.

Bankers feel that the losses of gold from New York may tend to slacken from now on, although many would be willing to see a somewhat larger outgoing movement than has yet materialized. The short term money market was again oversupplied with funds here, call money being offered outside at 1¼ per cent, against the official rate of 1½.

In the foreign exchange market, the Canadian dollar recovered substantially, reflecting the announcement by Premier Bennet that all obligations of the Dominion would be met strictly in accordance with their terms.

$1,080,782 Earned by Cont'l Baking

Continental Baking Corp. reports for 12 weeks ended September 12, last, net income after all charges, including depreciation and taxes, of $1,080,782, equivalent to 2.13 a share on 507,861 shares of $8 preferred stock and, after preferred dividends, to 51 cents a share on 281,813 class A shares outstanding. In the 12 weeks to September 13, last year, net was $1,515,612, equivalent to $2.92 a share on 519,574 preferred shares and $2.05 a share on 281,813 class A shares.

Increased Sales for Oil Companies

The first five out of nine operating divisions of the Boston-listed National Service Companies report sales of fuel oil for the first three weeks of September, 1931, amounting to 687,000 gallons, compared with 340,000 a year ago.

Prices Are Mixed in the Bond Market

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—The bond market was irregular today, but the tone was steadier than recently. Many of the changes were fractional and some miscellaneous issues were distinctly firm. Trading was moderately active.

Boston Exchange House Dissolved

Boston Stock Exchange is advised that as of today the firm of E. B. Haynes & Company will be dissolved. Thereafter Edmund B. Haynes will be at the office of Laidlaw & Company, 24 Federal st.

Cotton Lower in New York Market

New York, Oct. 1—Cotton futures today closed 15 to 16 points lower. Oct. 5.67; Dec. 5.86-88; Jan. 5.97-98; March 6.14-16; May 6.33-34; July 6.52; spot quiet; middling 5.80.

Finland Raises Rate

Helsingfors, Finland, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Bank of Finland today increased its discount rate from six per cent to seven and one-half per cent.

Mrs. Valles says Rudy does not croon around the house.

This should be taken advantage of in a commercial way. They could clean up a tidy fortune taking in roomers.

* * *

OAKLAND—Members of the Alameda Housewives' League plan to help solve the surplus cotton problem by wearing cotton stockings instead of silk.

* * *

However, that won't do very much to help solve the alienation of affections problem.

* * *

Who's Who and What of It?

This is Gallant W. Schipperke, who is lobbying a bill that will require by law that each ambulance be followed directly in the rear by a squad of motorcycle police. Schipperke claims that many attorneys are badly injured each year because of sudden stops made by ambulance drivers.

EPITAPH

Here lies tree from stress and strain.
A victim of bootleg champagne.
He might be living still, in sin,
If he had stuck to bathtub gin.
—Awk.

* * *

"No one in the Prohibition Bureau," say Director Woodcock, "has any reason to be discouraged." Especially about the unemployment situation.

* * *

The only ones who have any reason to be discouraged are those who're outside the Bureau—supporting it.

* * *

And if you still don't think travel is broadening, just consider what two weeks of Russia did to Bernard Shaw's gags.

HERE AND THERE WITH SCIENCE

This is Primeval F. Hapley, who used to be sulky, morose and socially nit with both sexes. Now Mr. Hapley hasn't a moment to himself. All he did was to invent the Hapley Better Mouse trap, complete with Eugenie hat and six-button gauntlets. All the world has beaten a path to his door, often staying to dinner and putting through long-distance calls on his telephone.

AMERICAN TRAGEDY

(News Item)

Johnson told police that he put on his coat and ran and that the husband followed, firing five shots, one of which felled him. Police were skeptical about this phase of the story, however, as an examination disclosed that the bullet had passed through the man's underwear, but not through his coat.

Those Tax Abatements

Mayor Curley's Indignation

The people of Boston can appreciate Mayor Curley's indignation at the State Board of Tax Appeals.

This Board, an appointive one, not an elective one, has granted tax abatements in enormous sums.

In fact, the $1,000,000 abatement granted to the Boston and Maine Railroad is said by the mayor to have been so raw that even the railroad officials declined to accept it and voluntarily co-operated with the city officials to reach a saner, more equitable adjustment.

Whatever the people of the rest of the country may do, the people of New England jealously insist that their own prerogatives in government shall be conserved.

The abatement power is a taxing power. It takes money out of the pockets of some people and puts it into the pockets of others.

The taxing power should be reserved to the officials the people elect, from the Legislature in the State to the selectmen in the smallest towns.

To vest it in a State Board of appointive officials is to build up bureaucracy at the expense of the simple democracy, which all good New Englanders revere.

Scuttling the Navy

The Hoover Administration's naval policy has taken an alarming turn. Its latest proposal—excused, as usual, by pleas of economy and world peace—amounts to SABOTAGE.

It contemplates delaying or scrapping the Navy Department's program to build our cruiser strength up to the level assigned us in the London Treaty. It also contemplates cutting in half the Navy's necessary destroyer program, half-heartedly maintained until now for the sake of employment. And it considers abandoning, for paltry savings, the modernization of our old warships not signed away by our weak-minded treaty-makers.

For Washington to say "economy" dictates this un-American policy fools nobody. The obvious and compelling motive is PACIFISM.

For it is not an accident that Washington on Tuesday scraps our navy plans, and the League of Nations on Wednesday calls for a world truce on navy building—with Japan and France objecting.

Our ambassador at Geneva, to promote pacifism, goes so far even as to sacrifice by word our treaty right to build cruisers up to the London quota. The purpose, Washington asserts, is to have Japan and other countries follow our example—when these very nations tell the League THEY WILL NOT. So we enter on a navy truce ALONE, with no assurance there will be a truce—with strong assurances there will not be.

And the only effect—worse still, what looks like the official intention—of our strange behavior is AUTOMATICALLY TO SINK THE AMERICAN NAVY TO THE LEVEL OF A THIRD-RATE POWER. For, as the Navy League of the United States points out, merely by ceasing to build—if all interested nations cease—within one year Britain will rank first, Japan second, and America third, because ships grow old and useless.

So ends in pacifist fatuity the 5-5-3 ratio of the London Treaty, which was to make America second to none. So would end the "parity" of the London Treaty.

Just Folks

"The Truths That Never Can Be Proved"

Believe in them unto the last,
The truths that eye can never see;
The promise when this life is past
An ampler life is still to be;
The soul's growth, scarcely noted here;
The benefit of nobler thought
Which seem at times to disappear
For all eternity are wrought.

Cling to your faith and stay unmoved
Against the storm and stress of doubt;
The truths that never can be proved
Disturb your mind no more about.
They live who once were here, and wait
Somewhere for us who stay behind.
Despite the years that separate
Love shall again its loved ones find.

Of God's great purpose and His plan
Come hints but vaguely now and then.
Low whisperings to every man
That he was born to live again.
He feels it 'neath the starry sky
Where countless radiant beacons shine
That something in him cannot die
But is eternal and divine.

What Do You Know?

Do you know:

1. What is meant by filibustering?
2. What is the appearance of mercury?
3. What invention helped Columbus in his discoveries?
4. In what city is Ulysses S. Grant buried?
5. What is the name of the contrivance used to descend safely by from a balloon?
6. Is a meter longer or shorter than a yard?
7. What was the name of each wife of Napoleon?
8. Where is there a duplicate of our Statue of Liberty?
9. What did Alexander Pope say about a little learning?
10. What name is given to the tubes that connect arteries with veins?

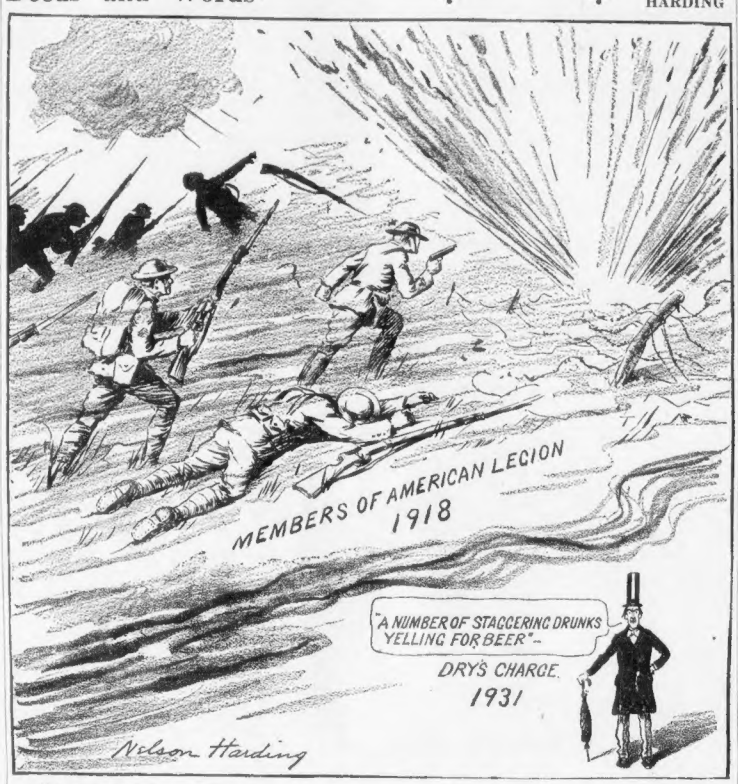
Deeds and Words

By NELSON HARDING



The men in the upper part of this picture are same ones mentioned so gratefully by their fellow countryman in the lower part. Was there ever a stronger contrast between deeds and words? Most of our space is properly devoted to gallant deeds. The insignificant area in the lower right corner is quite enough for the abusive words it contains.

Listen, World!

Why Not a System?

REMEMBER THAT doleful ditty—

"A man's work lasts from sun to sun,
"But a woman's work is never done."

Eve, I suspect, composed that theme song when she put the first pot of spinach on to boil. And it has been a red hot household favorite ever since. As a recent explosion in this column proved—

Elsie Robinson

Just to keep things stirring, we printed a letter from a certain Alice Whitley. Alice is a modern working girl. She lives with her married sister who is possessed of a comfortable home, washings-out-and-help-in-on-Saturdays, a nice car, two lovely babies and a once-fond husband who is fast getting the heeby-jeebies. All because the Missis believes in the woman's-work-never-done theory . . . and proves it by having the dishes stacked in the sink, the dinner still uncooked, and the babies yelling all over the place when Sister Alice and Husband Al comes home at night.

"There's no excuse for her," snapped Alice, with the usual sisterly snort. "The babies are well—she's strong—the house has every convenience. The trouble is she hasn't any system. She spends hours gabbing over the phone, then wonders why her work isn't done. She won't train the children, so of course they run all over her. IF I RAN MY JOB THE WAY MOST WIVES RUN THEIRS, I'D BE FIRED IN A WEEK."

Which sounded like the makings of an argument, so we passed it on. Thinking how all these Modern Wives would rise in defense of their efficiency. But once again we're wrong. For days the mails have bulged with sympathetic sobs for that Poor Dear Overworked Woman . . . and mean remarks about Working Girls who write letters like that and Female Traitors who publish them!

So I'm wondering. Is it really true that "IT'S UNFAIR TO EXPECT BUSINESS METHODS OF A WIFE OR MOTHER?"

Young Mrs. Lane protests that it is. "Marriage is not a business," she cries. "A HUSBAND HAS NO RIGHT TO EXPECT HIS WIFE TO BE AN EFFICIENT WORKER. She loves him and is his inspiration—that is more valuable than the work of twenty servants, and he should be so grateful that he will gladly do the housework after office hours himself."

The lady admits, however, that the idea isn't going over so big with her own husband. But men are ingrates ever.

But 3789 Mad Mamas can't all be wrong. Here's M. E. G. of Philadelphia, speaking for the rest of them.

"To the girl who works in the office," says she, "life is forever new and interesting. New work, new faces, new ideas, keep this girl mentally and physically alert and fresh. But consider the wife and mother. She, poor thing, hasn't much interest outside her home. Her life consists of the same unvarying routine.

"She rises in the morning and prepares breakfast for her husband, who is probably too absorbed in his paper to notice her face across the table. The hurried good-bye kiss doesn't satisfy the woman who once knew the thrill of his passionate caresses. Then comes dish washing . . . cleaning . . . baby's bath and nap . . . bottles . . . diapers . . . the laundry . . . getting Junior off to school . . . shopping . . . mending—so, far into the night. Naturally by night time, she is tired and discouraged. She can't possibly be as fresh as the girl who only works during office hours."

So? Maybe not. But perhaps I'd be more touched by your pitiful picture, sister, if I (and several thousand others) had swung a house, wrestled with Junior—and batted out columns or sold real estate or taught dancing between bouts. So I can't help but think that if the Poor Dear Girl REALLY WANTED to acquire a few fresh interests and maybe a neck shave, she might find a way.

And I'm also wondering how our Grandmas, who had nine kids, did all their own baking and ran the farm when the old man was away, managed. It certainly does look as if we modern femmes were easily suckered out. Or maybe had struck a soft racket.

New York Day by Day

Carroll, the "Lone Wolf"

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Earl Carroll, since his graduation from song writing to theatrical producing, has been the Rialto's lone wolf. He did not run with the pack. Single handed he has faced almost every conceivable obstacle—from sudden desertion by backers to a year in Atlanta.

In appearance Earl is a guileless, soft-voiced esthete whose wide eyes seem perpetually saucered in innocence. No one would think of him as author of a flaming sign board heralding: "Earl Carroll, premier authority on feminine beauty," just to annoy a rival producer who passed it daily.

Only those who have felt the nip of his fangs, know that Carroll is the lone wolf who fights. Sometimes he has to be cornered but in every scrimmage he has proved a dangerous foe. Many times his hopes have crumbled about him. Yet he rises Phoenix like from the figurative ashes.

When he built and opened his first theater nine years ago, his initial effort, an ambitious allegory called "Bavu," flopped miserably, leaving his angel cold. Two other clean little dramas met the same fate. Then he turned to snappy revues and produced a ribald row of money making successes.

There followed the chain of catastrophes winding up in the producer being shackled and carried off semi-conscious to a federal prison. Broadway shook its head and sounded taps. Carroll returned a forlorn, hollow eyed wreck.

In a very short time he not only produced three shimmeringly smashing revues but has rebuilt his theater into what is admitted the most elaborately sumptuous playhouse in America, opening with a box office hit. The experiment interests the average theater for it presages a return to $5 prices in the theater.

His modern mosque offers endless innovations such as the elimination of the call boy by broadcasting to dressing rooms, a view of audience reaction by the stage manager through powerful lenses and an official box with a private door to the stage for such famous guests, for instance, as the Prince of Wales.

Magazine writers are clipping heads for endless staring out window windows these days. Fashioners of fiction face the bleakest era of their careers. No periodical is immune. Depressing rumors circulate the literary world. Story prices have been slashed to the bone and many magazines, instead of buying, are using only reserve supply. Several top notchers have withdrawn entirely from the market to await brighter times. Coupled with all this is the report that a number of high priced magazines will parachute to 10 cents shortly.

* * *

And here is a libel on the reportorial fraternity. At a dinner the other night a well known metropolitan newspaper editor observed: "It doesn't mean a thing when an editor carries a cane but I never knew a cane carrying reporter who wasn't cuckoo." Business of baring a bloody but unbowed head!

* * *

Maybe it is true but there are several Exhibit A's worth considering. Richard Harding Davis, Irvin Cobb, Charlie Somerville, Roy W. Howard and Phil Simms sported sticks during news hustling days. And so did Floyd Gibbons.

* * *

Bernard Sobel just rounds in from third base gasping that Helen Morgan has sold a batch of essays to College Humor. She recently installed a typewriter in her dressing room and developed a naive prose poetry style—thin gum bubbles about Mr. and Mrs. Camel and the fun of desert treking in the moonlight.

* * *

Near the obelisk in Central Park. A taxi makes a quick swerve and the driver yells: "Hit him smack in the middle." A beautiful striped squirrel flip-flops into the stiffness of death. And a certain onlooker walked home with a raging headache.

* * *

One laugh today anyway: Excited gentleman in front of Waldorf grabs arm of friend and exclaims: "Why the hell do I yell like a Comanche when I discuss my market losses?" But don't we all?

Prohibition Question—Repeal or Nullification

By BRAND WHITLOCK

(From "The Little Green Shutter," by Brand Whitlock. Published by D. Appleton & Co.)

(Copyright, by Brand Whitlock, 1931.)

TRAVELERS returning from abroad who have seen the Frenchman taking his mild aperitifs on the terrace of a cafe, or a German drinking beer in a beer-garden, smoking a long-stemmed tasselled meerschaum and listening to a Strauss waltz, say that we might learn from their example—which is quite true.

They propose a good-natured compromise. Let us, they say, "get together" and amend the Volstead Act, make a more liberal definition of the adjective "intoxicating" and permit the use of light wines and beers. Thus they would whip the Devil around the stump, and everybody would be happy.

But in the first place, those who talk of reaching a compromise with the prohibitionists don't know the prohibitionists. It can never be demonstrated to their mystic fervor that prohibition does not prohibit, or that it is not the one and only solution of the problem.

"If the law does not prohibit," they will say, "it is only because it is not enforced rigorously enough."

And no degree of enforcement would ever satisfy them. Though fleets should scour the seas and armies harry the land, and hordes of spies rummage every cellar and closet in the commonwealth, still would they be unconvinced, and, blandly condescending to say that it was all good enough, so far as it went, insist upon the exercise of more vigorous and forceful means.

Our people were reared in the tradition and belief that the Constitution was intended to protect the personal rights of the private citizen against organised forces in the state that threatened to overwhelm him. But now vast numbers of citizens feel that this protection has been withdrawn and that they are exposed to an unreasonable interference in their private lives that is incompatible with their liberties.

Statutes are enacted prohibiting an act that they do not consider wrong and they do not feel in conscience-bound to respect or obey these statutes. If the Eighteenth Amendment had been more flexible, granting to the federal government the power to deal with the liquor traffic, but leaving Congress to determine in what way the power should be exercised, the case might have been different; for some scope would have been left for the exercise of the popular will.

The solution might not have been ideal, but then no solution of the liquor problem thus far proposed on this planet is ideal. It would at least have been democratic.

But when the provision was made so hard and fast, so rigid and absolute, that it not only granted the power, but prescribed the one and only manner in which the power should be exercised, it defeated its own ends, by imposing upon the federal government an insuperable task.

According to the American tradition, the police power is one to be exercised by the states. They have ample power to regulate and restrict or to prohibit altogether the traffic in intoxicating liquors, and the question should be remitted to them to be dealt with according to local sentiment.

The natural and logical step would be to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. But we are not a logical people, and, even if we were, it is easier to get an amendment into the Constitution than to get it out.

The repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is a job that would take such a long time and involve such a complicated process that many consider it impracticable if not impossible. It would require a two-thirds vote in each house of Congress to submit the amendment, and acquiescence by three-fourths of the states to ratify it.

There are, indeed, vast difficulties in the way of making any change at all. Those who find a political advantage in upholding the Volstead Act, and those who profit financially by violating it, would unite in opposing any alteration. And those who make of prohibition a cult and a religion would be even more intransigent, for they have the holy obstinacy peculiar to the reformer, who is always the slave of his theory and can never escape its tyranny. Once his pride of opinion, his amour propre, is involved, he will listen to no reason or argument; he will entertain no idea of a change, or admit the slightest alteration in method, because this would involve his making the humiliating confession that, for once in his life, he had been mistaken.

But if the Eighteenth Amendment cannot be repealed or—if we must have federal control of the liquor traffic—superseded by another amendment with more flexible provisions, allowing Congress a wide latitude in dealing with the subject, then nullification of some sort is inevitable.

Nullification is a word that shocks the sincere partisans of prohibition, at least when it refers to the Eighteenth Amendment, for that has some peculiar sanctity about it that places it above all other amendments. But by their reckless haste to imbed their prejudices in the Constitution, and to fix in a rigid and immutable mould their method as the only one possible, they have got us into such a mess that it is difficult to see how we are to get out of it without nullifying some part of the Constitution.

No article of the Constitution is self-enforcing; there is nothing automatic about it. It can be made effective only by the enactment of statutes, and by their enforcement.

Sincere efforts have been made to enforce the statute enacted to give effect to the Eighteenth Amendment, and, as there is ample evidence in the report of the Wickersham Commission to prove, they have not succeeded.

It is easy enough to urge more enforcement, but, to make prohibition a reality, it would be necessary to undertake a ruthless and expensive operation that could not be carried very far before the machinery of enforcement came to a dead center in the blind alley of democracy where the exasperated people refuse to turn their own weapons upon themselves.

In that case Congress might, and probably would, repeal the existing statutes, and refuse to enact others to give force and effect to the constitutional provision. Or, easier still, since all money bills must originate in the House of Representatives, that body alone might assert the historic parliamentary right, so often invoked in favor of liberty, of refusing to vote supplies. And this process would refer the question back to the states.

It would not be a very edifying way to dispose of the matter, leaving the Eighteenth Amendment in the Constitution to degenerate into a mere rudimentary organ. But it would be no new thing in our history if that were its fate. For the man in the well-worn story, who was "in favor of the law but ag'in' its enforcement" was a typical representative of our race.

This is the tenth and final editorial in a series by Mr. Whitlock dealing with the prohibition problem.
